SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

Foreword

We, of the senior class, proudly present the 1958 Amptennian.

If there is one substance that is indispensable to a school, it is paper. Paper is used for homework assignments, report cards, club records, dance forms, sports programs, lunch tickets, and, of course, diplomas. Come with us, then, as we record through this medium, the history of this year's graduating class. "From Paper to Parchment."

Silver Memoirs — Twenty-Five Years of Service

Standing: David Miller, Dr. George Eichler, William Bennett, Alvin Fegely, Arlene Miller, Norman Laub, Evan Hankee, Robert Stine, Edwin Berg, Leon Kuntz. Seated: Mabel Newhard, Ruth Farber, Myrtle Moll, Laura Weed, Edith Stauffer, Renee Shellhammer, Nelle Sloyer.

Congratulations! This is what we offer the teachers who have taught at N. H. S. for twenty-five years or more. They have formed a club known as the "Quarter Century Club." Along with this membership goes the satisfaction of making many friends and teaching many good students.

Not only these teachers, but all the educators here should be given our respect. They have devoted many years of their lives for education and for the future citizens of the community and the nation.

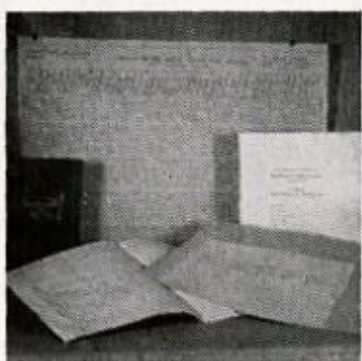

Little realized is the responsibility, duty, and perseverance of the teachers. With the growing need for more education, their duty becomes greater and more important for survival in today's world. So it is, with these facts that we take time to honor our teachers.

We, the pupils of Northampton Area Joint High School, acknowledge the work these teachers have done and will do to better education.

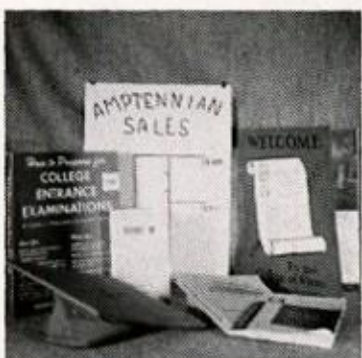

Miss Weed and Mr. Bilheimer are given special recognition from Dr. Brior, chairman of the Education Committee.

Staff

The staff comprised of teachers, administrators, custodians, secretaries, cooks, and doctors would be at a loss if they had no PAPER on which to do their planning, calculating, and bookkeeping. Our entire school system is under the direction of our superintendent, Dr. Eichler. His two hardworking assistants — Mr. Laub and Mr. Berg, along with the elementary school principals — are the people who see that the decisions of our taxpayers' representatives, the School Board, are effectively and efficiently carried out. All these decisions must be recorded. This exacting task falls to the indispensable secretarial staff.

The marking sheets and the grade books are also integral parts of a teacher's equipment. The attendance office daily issues the attendance sheet which is compiled from each teacher's absentee report.

Our guidance director, Mr. Lerch, worked diligently to see that each senior prepared carefully for his future. Choosing a college or a job was made easier by Mr. Lerch's lucid explanation and able guidance.

The janitorial staff to which we were deeply indebted for a clean and attractive school was also conscious of PAPER, dirt, and dust; for they worked night and day repairing, cleaning, picking up paper, and keeping the school looking its best.

The PAPER menus proved the fact that our cafeteria daily provided well-balanced meals prepared and served by the large staff of cooks directed by our chief dietitian, Mrs. Mary Zirinsky.

The annual physical and dental exams were taken care of by the medical staff which also administered first aid to the students beset by minor ills and injuries.

Once again, these vital records were kept on PAPER, the essential element of our schools today.

The school board served the community by administering the laws of the state in our school system.

This capable group of thirteen men was elected by the people of the individual school districts and was given the power to formulate educational policies, to improve our schools, and to direct the entire administration of the school according to the standards set forth in the school code.

The local branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association and the school board established a teachers' workshop. At each meeting a different topic was discussed. Leading the discussions were personalities well-versed in their particular field. These meetings gave the faculty members opportunities to discuss the problems that arose in the classroom. They also gained further knowledge on subjects of interest to them. By attempting these special functions, our teachers were kept up to date on current educational theory and practices.

All these functions were performed with the intention of carrying out in a uniform manner the dictates of the school law. They also made our community accept its rightful place in constructive leadership in the field of educational progress.

Each board member gave freely of his time to the serious business of educating young people. In so doing the board established a program of instruction that made it possible for all students to become worthwhile citizens and better fitted for their life work.

With the plans of our new school no longer a dream, but a reality, and with the building problems in the hands of our capable board, it is certain that this school will be one to be proud of.

Thanks to these men of foresight, our school system has become one of the more advanced organizations in the state.

Our Dream on Paper

The architect's drawing of the new Northampton Area Joint High School

The new school, an interest to us all, is finally more than just a dream. Expected to be finished by 1960, it will be erected on a 20 acre plot of ground, which was donated to the school district of the Borough of Northampton. This plot is adjacent to the Northampton Memorial Community Center, and directly across the street from the present athletic field. Costing approximately $1,845,000, the school will hold 769 pupils. This building will be used as a senior high school for the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades.

The jointure is comprised of seven school districts. They are Borough of Northampton, Borough of Bath, Borough of Chapman Quarries, Township of Allen, Township of East Allen, Township of Moore and Township of Lehigh.

The planning of this school has been in full swing for the past few years. There is a special School Board Authority which does the actual planning. The affairs of the Authority are administered by a Board of seven members. One member is appointed by each of the individual Boards of School Directors of the School Districts.

The plans of the school have been laid in order to give us the extra space which is now lacking because of the increased enrollment. The new building will contain eleven standard classrooms, three oversized classrooms, three science and geography rooms, four commercial rooms, one homemaking room, two industrial arts rooms, one agriculture room, one art room, one music room, one library, a student activity room, a conference room, a cafeteria which will seat 235 people, a gym, an auditorium, a health room, two faculty rooms, and an administrative suite. However, the building of the new school does not mean that there will be changes in courses. It will provide for more flexibility in the curriculum, however, and should additional subjects prove necessary, they can be accommodated.

GEORGE A. EICHLER

A.B., M.A., Ed.D.

Superintendent of Schools

Dr. Eichler, our superintendent, undertakes the complicated task of the supervision and direction of our schools. He has devoted twenty-seven years of outstanding service to the educational and administrative work in our jointure. With a constant interest in us and our future, he is always striving toward the betterment of our school system. Proof of this is exhibited by his membership in the Commission on Ethics, Rights, and Competence of the Pennsylvania State Education Association for the past fourteen years, and serving as chairman for the past twelve years. He is an active member in community affairs and has numerous associations with educational committees. We are honored to have Dr. Eichler as the director of our schools.

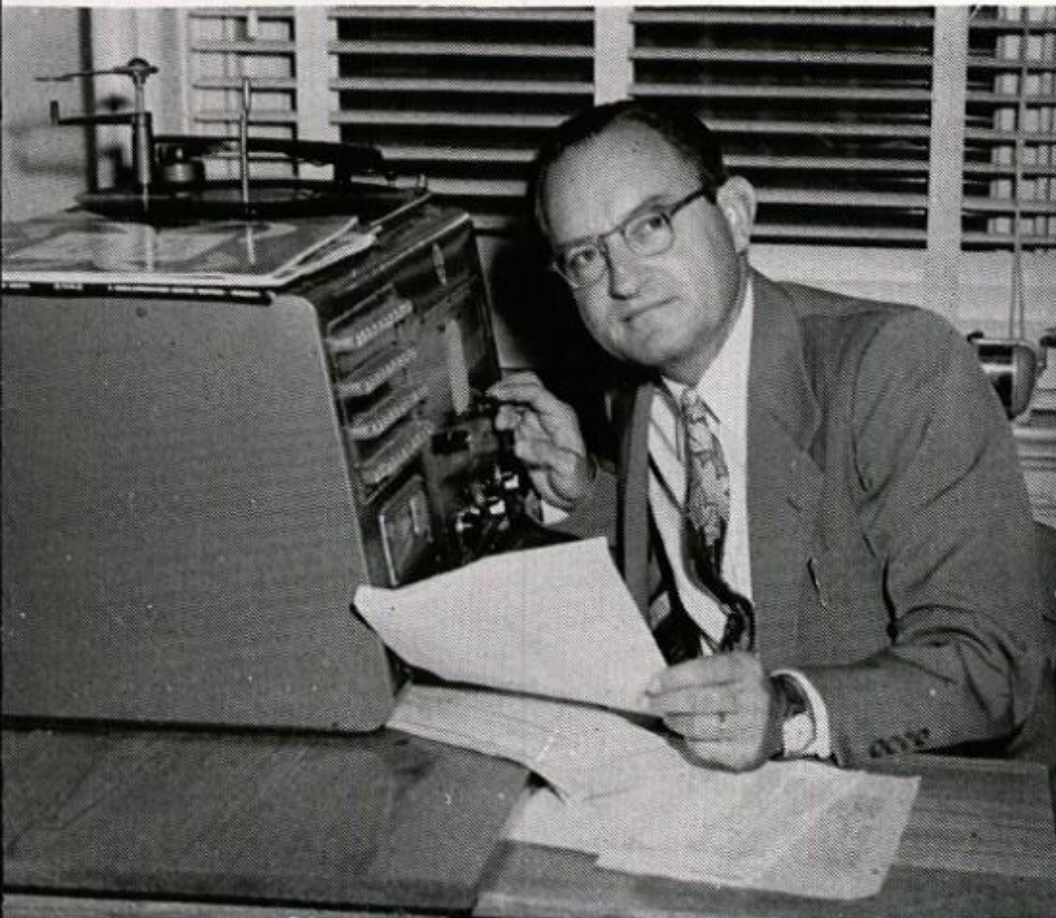

NORMAN A. LAUB, B.S., M.A.

Principal

Upon Mr. Laub, our principal, rests the great responsibility of overseeing our education. It is important that this education be one which will develop the whole individual. Mr. Laub not only coordinates the academic program but also drafts the extracurricular activities which are such a vital part of our school life. A faithful attendant of school events, he is the promoter of good school spirit. To make the school a success is his goal.

Absentee Reports . . .

Applications . . .

EDWIN A. BERG, A.B.

Assistant Principal

Mr. Berg, our assistant principal, capably supervises building facilities and special activities, adjusts schedule conflicts, tackles administrative problems, and organizes the lunch room schedule. He believes that the basis of an education is good, sound, logical thinking and endeavors through his "Thought for the day" to develop among the student body just such thinking.

ALBERT M. LERCH, B.S., M. Ed.

Guidance Director

Problems? Mr. Lerch, our Assistant Administrator and Guidance Director, is the man to see. His worthwhile advice and guidance have been of importance to all of us. We have all depended on him for information concerning tests, job placement, and college entrance exams. His counsel has often been requested by service returnees and college students. He also helps students with their emotional problems and handles such activities as clubs and assemblies. "Doc's" hobby of writing for educational magazines has given him many hours of profitable enjoyment.

Paper-Maids at Work

Miss Racheal Nicholas (seated) shows Miss Janet Harhart (left) and Mrs. Clara Wert how to make out the payroll.

One of the most important assets to our school offices is our competent secretaries. These girls prove indispensable in keeping our offices running smoothly and efficiently. One can always hear the hum of typewriters and adding machines echoing down the halls as the secretaries type letters and settle accounts. Answering telephones and taking dictation from the school executives is also part of their agenda.

Miss Berdell Marchak types a letter for Mr. Laub.

Need information during the summer? Our secretaries are always ready to take down the message and relay it to the person for whom it is intended. There's no summer vacation for these girls.

Miss Mary Ann Danner (left) and Miss Stella Wanko take care of our attendance problems.

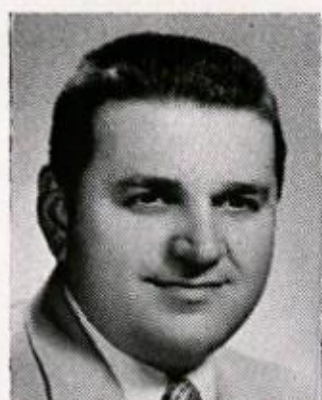

Golden Awards for Golden Deeds

Miss Weed and her coveted Golden Deeds Award.

Miss Weed, English teacher and faculty member, was chosen as the recipient of the Northampton Golden Deeds Award of 1957 by the Northampton Exchange Club. This was given as recognition for her achievement in teaching and devotion to duty.

The entire faculty is to be commended for their efforts to sustain a high standard of education. The enormity of the responsibility and influence of the teaching profession is tremendous. To paraphrase the words of Mathew Arnold, the function of the teacher is to teach and to propagate the best that is known and taught in the world. The teachers have to mold in their hands the clay of immaturity and adolescence and so to shape a nation.

They Provide Food for Thought

Row 1: V. Smith, A. Shellock, H. Miller, J. Lerch, O. Lokatash, D. Deily, H. Reppert, S. Young, C. Vanhorn. Row 2: R. Gober, K. Strohl, H. Ruch, E. Gardner, C. Tarnow, M. Kohler, M. Kohler, R. Farber, K. Deibert, M. Gehret, A. Smith.

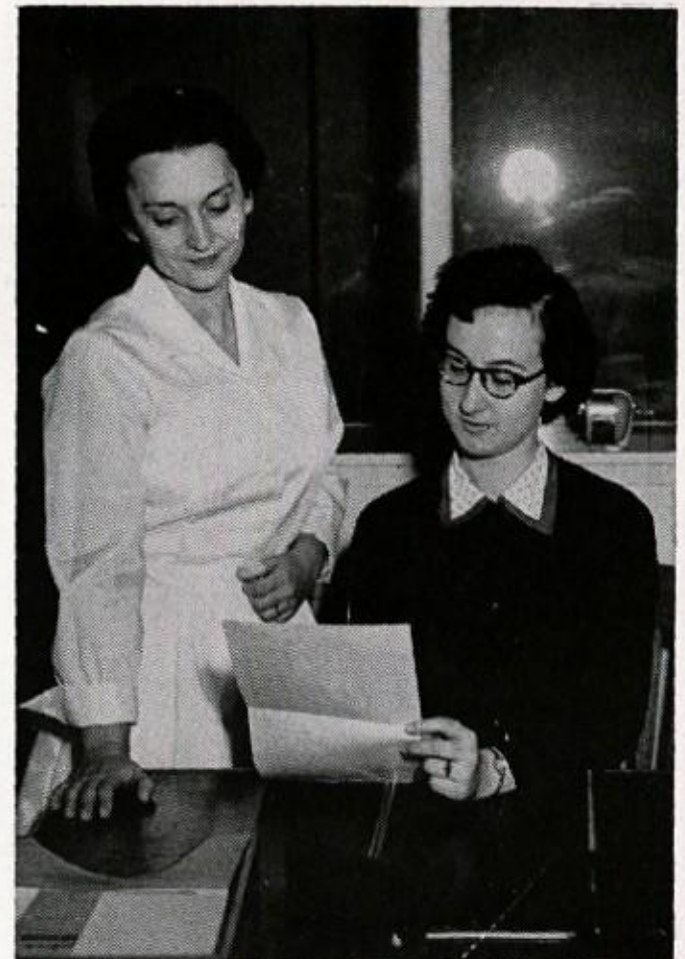

That wholesome, nutritious food is a solid foundation for clear thinking is a rule which the cafeteria staff firmly believes. A group of twenty-eight cooks daily prepared our very necessary "food for thought." These specially selected, balanced meals furnished the energy needed to put in a good day's work. Under the supervision of a capable, experienced dietitian,

Mrs. Mary Zirinsky, the cafeteria workers planned varied menus to suit the tastes and meet the nutritional requirements of all.

In addition to supplying nutritive values, the "caf", with its friendly atmosphere, also served as a place for both students and teachers to relax and discuss the day's happenings with their friends.

Wolf Building Cooks, left to right, C. McAdam, M. Messelehner, E. Newhard, M. Newhard.

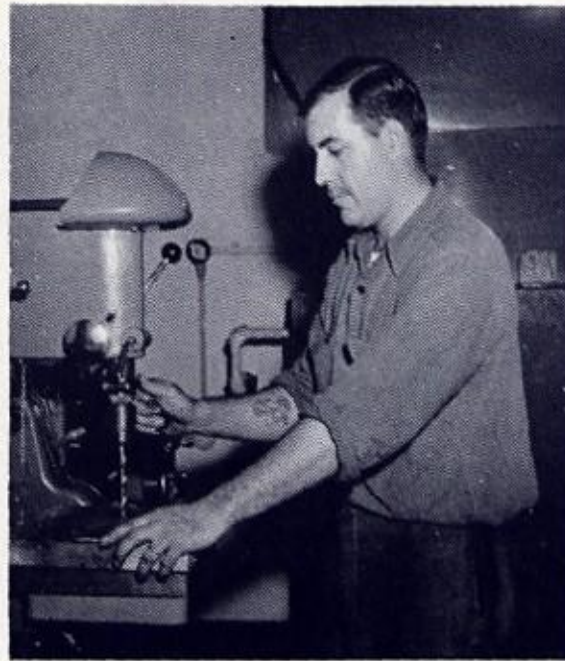

Mrs. Mary Zirinsky, dietitian, and Mrs. Phyllis Bartholomew, secretary, talk over the nutrition and economy of next week's menu.

Mr. Paul Miller makes another delivery.

Our Little Scraps are their Big Problem

Mr. Harry Rehrig has a never-ending task of repairing.

Mr. Francis Laury and Mr. Clifford Frack were kept busy keeping us warm this year.

Dusting is one of the daily jobs performed by Mrs. Helen Taschler and Miss Emma Lerch.

A clean and neat school is a necessary factor contributing to effective learning. All day long the custodians and maintenance men are busy on the job. Sweeping the floors and halls, repairing broken machinery, painting rooms and fixtures, and keeping the whole school clean are only a few of the many tasks they undertake.

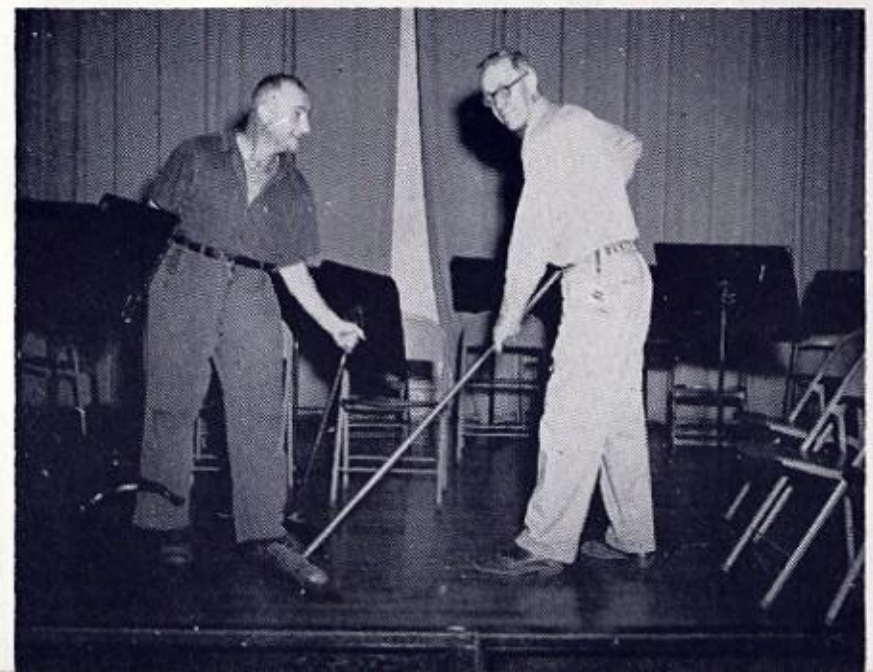

Our two cleaning ladies first start their working day after the final dismissal bell has rung and the students have left. Mrs. Helen Taschler and Mrs. Emma Lerch make sure the rooms are dust-free and neat while "Smoky" Lauer, Mr. Stuber, Mr. Breitfeller, Mr. Druckenmiller, Mr. Young, and Mr. Rehrig maintain a healthy and comfortable temperature for working and studying.

These people have difficult and varied duties which they very capably carry out. Without them, the school's physical plant could not be run effectively or efficiently.

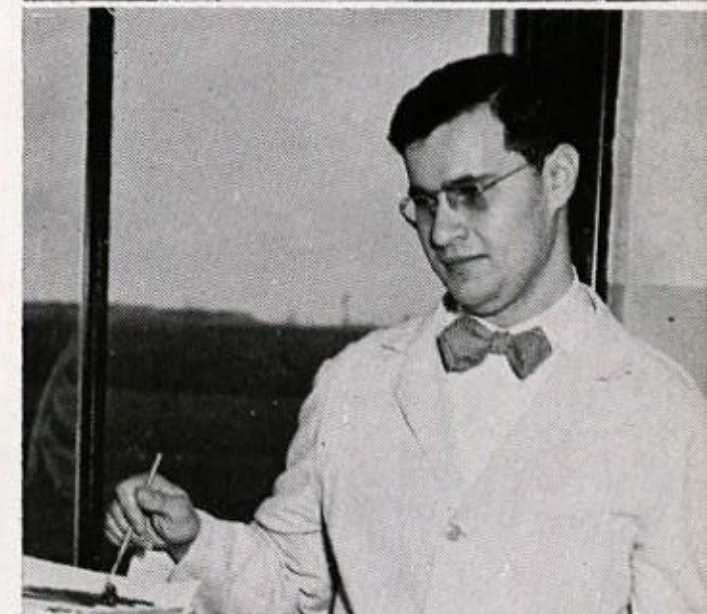

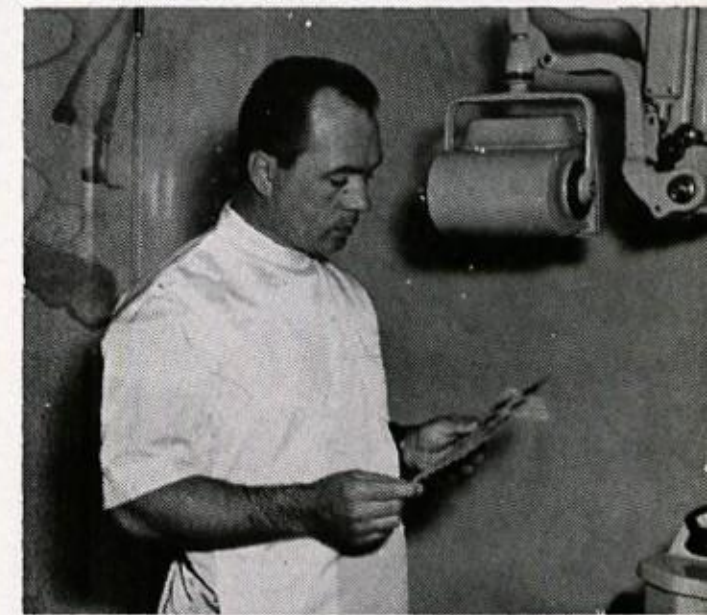

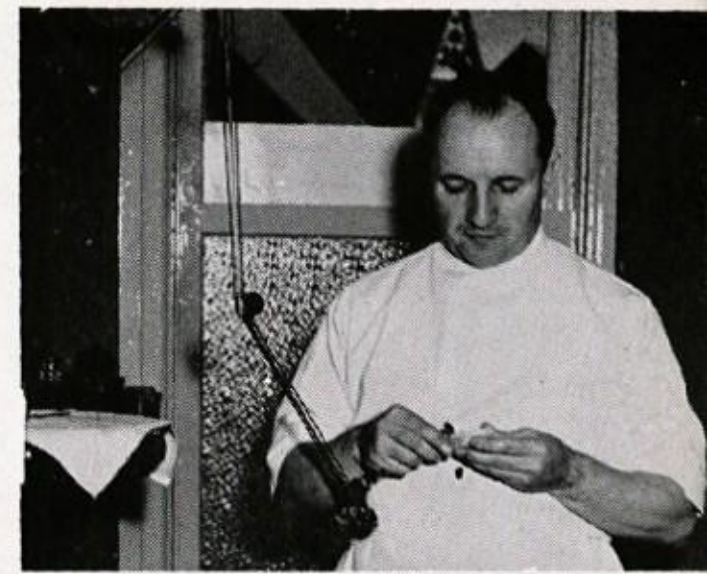

The ventilator is repaired — again — by Mr. Alfred Lauer and Mr. Joseph Breitfeller.

Another task of Mr. Robert Stuber and Mr. Pearly Druckenmiller is keeping the auditorium clean.

Examination Papers

Breathe in, hold it, breathe out slowly.
Mrs. Dorothy Erdosy and Dr. Mahlon Miller complete another examination.

A stethoscope, audiometer, and drill may not be standard equipment for a purse or a pocket, but our school is certainly fortunate to have doctors and nurses who use these instruments for our health and safety. Giving examinations for all sports activities, being present at these games in case of an emergency, and taking care of special medical school cases are but a few of their duties. Their teaching and supervision have shown us that physical and mental health are interdependent.

Top to Bottom: Dr. George Hrishko, Dr. Charles Moritz, Dr. Sidney Parmet, Dr. Charles Sieger.

"Can you hear me now?" Miss Stettler asks Mike.

Student Body

"Knowledge comes but wisdom lingers." This is the motto of the senior class. Any senior will admit that he has worked hard for whatever amount of knowledge he acquired. We now anticipate the future and the opportunity it will give us to put our knowledge to practical use.

The report card was the measuring stick of an individual's ability, and every student strived to get the proof of his ability on paper. The seniors who took the college entrance board exams realized how hard it was to get a qualifying score and acceptance into the college of their choice. The seniors who did not plan to enter college worked equally as hard to earn their diplomas which were needed when they went job hunting.

During our graduation year, 1958, many events formerly found only in the comic strips came off the drawing boards and held the world in awe. "Sputniks", "Explorer(s)", "Vanguards", and many other space vehicles made our eyes pop and our imagination soar to new levels. It was no longer fantasy to think that some members of the 1958 graduating class may be along when the United States makes its claim on the MOON! These momentous events will all be forever recorded on PAPER; in like manner we seniors eagerly await our PAPER, the high school parchment diploma.

At the head of the graduating class of 1958 are the senior class officers — Judy Chernansky, Charles Kuntzleman, Philip Ridgely, and Richard Ifkovits. They helped plan some of our more important events of the year, such as The Senior Class Christmas Party, The Class Play, The Washington Trip, and The Senior Dinner Dance. The officers are ably assisted by their "chief-of-staff", Mr. Ernest A. Papp. His task of encouraging the seniors to co-operate is by far the most important of his many duties.

DONALD BAHNICK

2369 Washington Avenue

Quietness and shyness are lost as Don takes to the gridiron. Participating in physical activities and sports as well as liking math show where Don's interests lie. The future holds no definite plans, but Donald debates about the service. College Preparatory. Football 1, 2, 3; Basketball 1; Rifle Club 1.

COLETTE BANKOS

2202 Siegfried Avenue

Zing! goes the cash register, as Colette demonstrates her sales know-how at Newberry's material department. Sodality, church choir, and going for auto rides with her neighborhood girl-friends occupy her time as she dreams of working in an office. Clerical and Sales.

MARY ALICE BARRALL

Bath, R. D. 2

M-m-m, the air is filled with a delicious aroma as Mary tests a new recipe. Young People's Society and teaching Sunday School are among her church activities. As a nurse's aid at a convalescent home, "Smilie" keeps the patients happy. Mary will trade her major-ette uniform for a receptionist's uniform in the future.

Clerical and Sales. Tri-Hi-Y 1; Major-ette 1, 2, 3.

GORDON W. BARTHOLOMEW

Bath, R. D. 2

Putt-putt! We're off to Bath. This blond stellar blockbuster on the mats seeks enjoyment in nature's wonders, hunting and fishing. Our future dentist makes his own cavities by holding the title of NAJHS's star banana split consumer.

College Preparatory. Weight Club 1, 2, 3; Football 1; Wrestling 1, 2, 3.

As graduation time draws near,

PATRICIA ANN BEERS

Danielsville, R. D. 1

"Sixty-Four hands around" and Pat goes whizzing by. This jovial gal has a definite weakness for roller skating and church activities. As secretary of the Luther League she prepares for her future job. The "key" to Pat's future lies in a typist's position at the Bethlehem Steel.

Secretarial. Girls Chorus 1, 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 1, 2, 3; Courier 1.

SHIRLEY BEERS

Danielsville, R. D. 1

"Gigglebox" Shirley is an ardent fan of James Dean. Her other passion is Ford cars, any year or model. She will look to her father's business for a secretarial job.

Secretarial. Courier 1, 2, 3.

WALTER BEIL

Danielsville, R. D. 1

Laughs, fun, and seriousness of work identify Walt. Laughs — his part of "Waldo", the comedian, in the Senior Class Play. Fun — Walt at dances on Saturday night. Seriousness — his good marks in school. The Air Force will gain a moral booster when Walt dons their blue uniform.

College Preparatory. Senior Class Play.

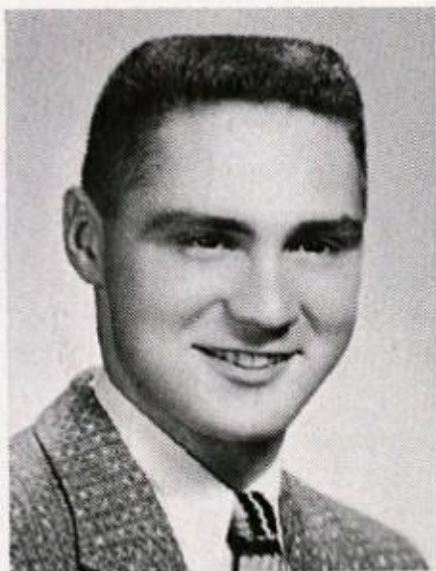

CAROL BELTZNER

Danielsville, R. D. 1

Mention Edgemont Skating Rink or a trailer court and Carol is ready to go. The Courier, Art, and work don't keep her from hearing the sound of wedding bells. The future is a toss between a busy secretary or a happy housewife.

Secretarial. Concrete Courier 1; Art 1.

BRUCE BIERY

2382 Main Street

If you see a lad sporting a flat top hair cut and a neat appearance that's Bruce. Dancing and pigeon raising rate tops in his book as pastimes. The service and barbering are possibilities for the future.

Clerical and Sales. Hi-Y 3; Football 1, 2; Christmas Vespers 1, 2, 3; Spring Concert 1; Boys' Chorus 1.

SYLVIA JANE BILHEIMER

Bethlehem, R. D. 2

Sylvia's long natural curls are the envy of the senior girls. This vivacious lass, "Frankly" and constantly speaking, teases the boys with her flirtatious brown eyes. Her gentle disposition and pleasing voice will help her further her education at St. Luke's Hospital.

College Preparatory. Girls Chorus 1, 2, 3; Girls Ensemble 1, 2; Vespers 1, 2, 3; Spring Concert 1, 2, 3.

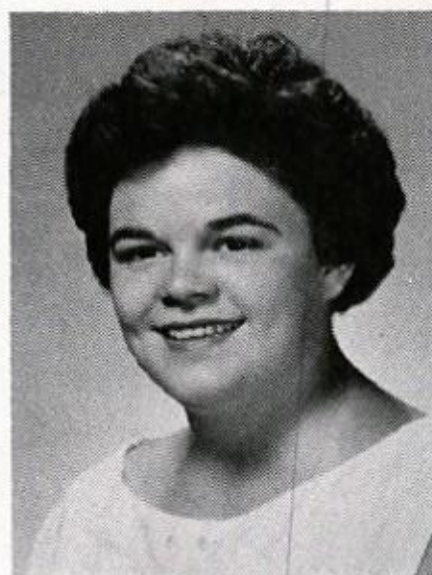

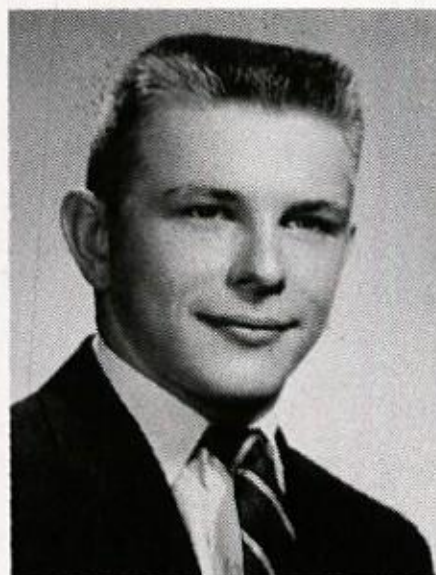

MILAN L. BILLY

1370 Washington Avenue

A jaunty strut and a mischievous grin — that's Billy, our N Club "Veep." Wrestling holds first place in the heart of this sports-minded, fun-loving, "spud" specialist. Will his 127 pounds wrestle the books at Muhlenberg or the Coast Guard Academy?

College Preparatory. N Club 1, 2, 3; Weight Club 1; Football 1, 2, 3; Wrestling 2, 3.

BEVERLY BINDER

Walnutport, R. D. 1

Giggling and pesting people on the school bus are "Bebberly's" "sports". This loquacious miss seldom misses a movie at Becky's. Her collection of records and love of modern dancing may be a hint to what she's planning in the future.

Clerical and Sales.

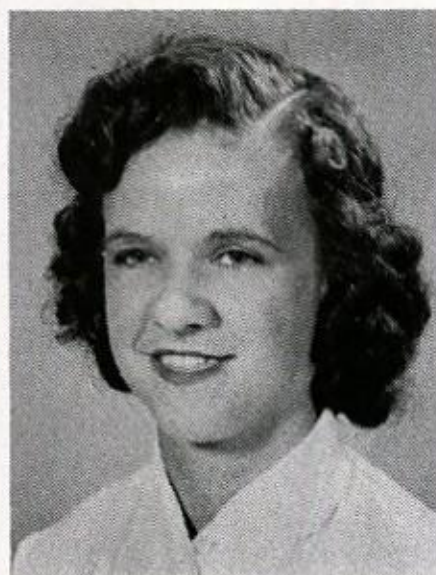

We recall the events of the year.

ROSE M. BIRD

Walnutport, R. D. 2

For information on where to find the best steak sandwiches in the valley, see Rosie. Along with being an active Tri-Hi-Y member, Rosie sings on the church choir and is "handy" around the house when cooking or embroidery are mentioned. In the future Rosie will be a clerk in some lucky man's office.

Commercial. Tri-Hi-Y 1.

NANCY JANE BLAIR

Bath, R. D. 1

A sweet smile and sparkling eyes are characteristic of Nancy. She enjoys collecting foreign dolls and seems to have a constant craving for hamburgers with onions. Typing and cooking are requisites for her dreams of secretary and housewife.

Commercial.

BARRY O. BODO

Northampton, R. D. 1

Whether roaming the outdoors, teasing the girls, or driving fast cars, Barry does it well. Skating and swimming are part of this archer's sporting activities. Barry will "trade in" his Plymouth for Business College or the Navy.

College Preparatory. Photo Club 1, 2, 3; Chorus 1, 2; Spring Concert 1, 2; Art Exhibition.

LOUISE A. BOLLMAN

245 East Main Street, Bath

"Oh! What funny thumbs you have" is a familiar phrase to Wheezer. Her bracelet-laden arms are well adept in carrying books, cheering, and supporting Ensemble music. Our National Honor Society secretary won't have any time for "slip-ups" when she embarks on her elementary teaching career.

College Preparatory. National Honor Society 2, 3; Girls' Chorus 1, 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 1, 2, 3; Girls' Ensemble 1, 2, 3; Gym Team 3; Mixed Ensemble 2; Cheerleader 2, 3; Forensics 2; Amptennian 3; N Club 3; Spring Concert 1, 2, 3; Christmas Vespers 1, 2, 3.

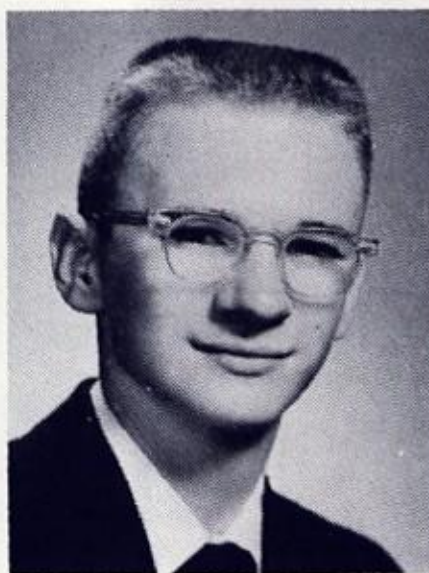

BONNIE LEE BROBST

Bath, R. D. 2

Need a partner? Just ask Bonnie, who loves to dance. Being a majorette, a member of Youth Fellowship, and Church Choir can't keep her from rating tops in short-hand. Her future dream — to be a secretary at Keystone Portland Cement Co.

Secretarial. Girls' Chorus 1; Mixed Chorus 1; Majorette 1, 2, 3; N Club 3; Amptennian 3.

PAUL BRUCHAK

1523 Cedar Street

Look out Arthur Murray, here comes a new rival! Paul manages to charm the girls with the latest dance steps despite his busy schedule of football manager and "N" Club. Ahead of him lies sailing with the U.S. Navy.

College Preparatory. N Club 2, 3; Football manager 1, 2.

GLENN R. BUSS

Bath, R. D. 1

Bussie, our loyal student councilman, cultivates friendships and honor cards as well as corn and potatoes. Beef steaks, pork chops, and girls are favorites with this 4-H Club advocate. Penn State has next claim on our future biologist.

College Preparatory. Student Council 1, 2, 3; Science Fair 2, 3.

VIOLA M. BUTZ

111 West Main Street, Bath

A long wavy pony tail and a beautiful corsage of flowers identify Viola. On weekends she works at Murphy's 5 & 10, plays the piano, and visits friends. Viola is certain to be an asset to the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Secretarial. Girls' Chorus 1, 2, 3; Christmas Vespers 1, 2, 3; Spring Concert 1, 2, 3.

Amptennian production soon got under way;

JUDITH CHERNANSKY

1544 Washington Avenue

Zollinger's top notch model is an asset to our ensemble. Slender and attractive Judy is active as co-president of Junior Red Cross. Tinting photographs is her specialty. Her loquaciousness helped her win second prize in the Junior Speaking Contest. That effective smile will send Judy on her way to modeling.

College Preparatory. Girls' Ensemble 1, 2, 3; Mixed Ensemble 2, 3; Cheerleader 1, 2; Junior Speaking Contest.

ANTHONY CHIMARYS

MICHAEL J. CHURETTA

2246 Siegfried Avenue

"Anyone got a toothpick?" asks our chief can-stacker from the A & P. "Mickey" focuses most of his leisure hours on stamp collecting, reading books??? and camping. Our "Stargazer" (who has interests in every town) hopes to don the Air Force blue in the future.

College Preparatory.

MICHAEL J. CHUSS

Bath, R. D. 2

"Strike three! Yer out!" is a familiar phrase to Mike, our star pitcher. Making opponents groan as he applies new wrestling holds proves his all-around athletic ability. His popularity with the girls is enhanced by his great sense of humor. Dartmouth will be his living quarters for the next four years.

College Preparatory. Boys' Chorus 1; Weight Club 2; N Club 2, 3.

LOUIS A. COGOSSI

2910 Cherryville Road

A saw, a car, some tools, or a girl keeps our "jack" of all trades happy. Louie, the "ace" in mechanics and the "joker" in school, seldom runs into a problem he can't handle. The future points toward college and a degree in engineering.

College Preparatory. Band 1, 2; Weight Club 1; Wrestling 1; Forensics 1.

LILIA COLAFRANCESCHI

429 Penn Street, Bath

Dark eyes and black hair introduce this avid Yankee fan. Always ready with a helping hand, our homeroom president organizes the activities of 124. Reading doesn't keep Lilia from gaining ability in shorthand and typing. Bryand and Stratton Business School comes next.

Secretarial. National Honor Society 3.

School history was recorded from the very first day.

LINDA L. COLE

2377 Washington Avenue

Gossip, giggles, and gum — that's "Coley", our lady mechanic. Working at a local drug store and swimming makes for a busy girl. In the future, a job at the General Acceptance Corporation and the title "Mrs." await Linda.

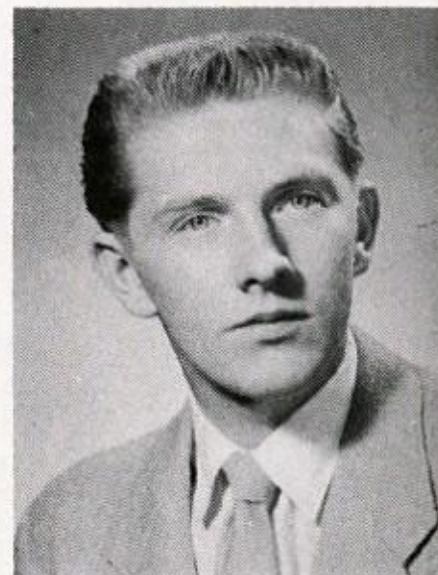

Secretarial. Tri-Hi-Y 1; Courier 1; Girls' Chorus 1, 2; Gym Exhibition 1; Spring Concert 1, 2; Amptennian 3.

DONALD A. CORRELL

Bath, R. D. 1

"Friends, Romans, and Countrymen." Don is giving Shakespeare one last turn before Forensics. He displayed his speaking ability in the Christmas Vespers and Senior Class Play. It's Anchors Aweigh for Don.

JOSEPH J. MIKSITS

517 East 11th Street

Answering grammar questions comes easy to "Chuz." He can be found working at the swimming pool in the summer and playing football and basketball in school. Joe's fondness of airplanes will be a gain for the Air Force in the future.

College Preparatory. Football 1, 2, 3; Basketball 1, 2, 3; N Club 3.

RICHARD H. MILLER

Walnutport, R. D. 1

Cars, hot rods, mechanics. Richard is an advocate of all of these. His art ability is also proved in his work in school and on cars. With all his mechanical ability what else could Richard be but a mechanic? Industrial Arts. Art Club 1.

PATRICIA A. MILLS

Bath, R. D. 2

Listening to the latest records and "Joe" are Pat's favorites. With a flare for fashion, our gum crackling girl is always well-dressed. The future holds the position of steno or beautician or perhaps the title "Mrs."

Secretarial. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2; Student Council 1.

BARBARA LUCILLE MILLS

Bath, R. D. 2

Giggles and letters to the Army employ this lively lass. The activities on her agenda include homework plus part time clerking at Lerner's. Her speed and accuracy as a stenographer will make the boss happy in the near future.

Secretarial. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2; Concrete Courier 2; Amptennian 3.

CAROLINE MINNICH

Walnutport, R. D. 1

Find a pen? There's a good chance it's Caroline's for she has formed the habit of losing them. A top-notch babysitter, Caroline finds an outlet in her records and her photo collection of movie stars. Some lucky office will claim her as a secretary soon.

Secretarial.

RONALD MINNICH

Walnutport, R. D. 2

"Up and over" is Ron's motto as he clears the bar for another high jump record. Sandlot sports and hot rodding round out this dark, handsome athlete's spare time activities. Ron will abandon the pinball at Bert's for a pair of Air Force wings.

College Preparatory. Rifle Club 1; Track 1, 2, 3.

BARBARA J. MOSER

Bath, R. D. 2

Yak, Yak, Yak. Bab's natural gift of gab bubbles forth once more. This cute blonde member of the Luther League is easy to spot at any activity. Her studies will pay off when she dons a white cap and walks down a hospital corridor.

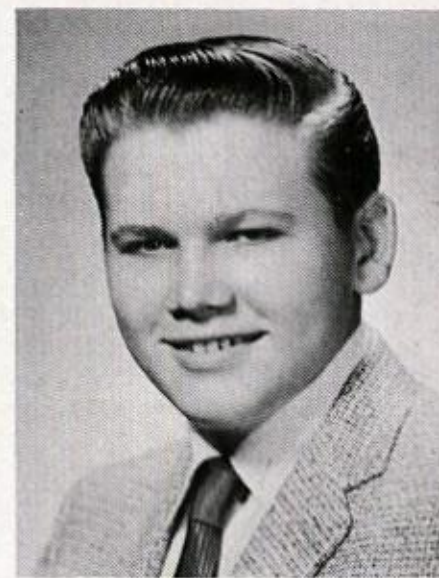

College Preparatory. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2, 3 (Chaplain 2, 3).

JOHN M. NEDEROSTEK

2389 Dewey Avenue

John's nickname should be Mr. Mischief, for he is always teasing teachers and girls. John, an Explorer in the Scouts, is an expert game hunter. The Army and a position as guided missiles technician is what he wants.

Clerical and Sales. Rifle Club 1.

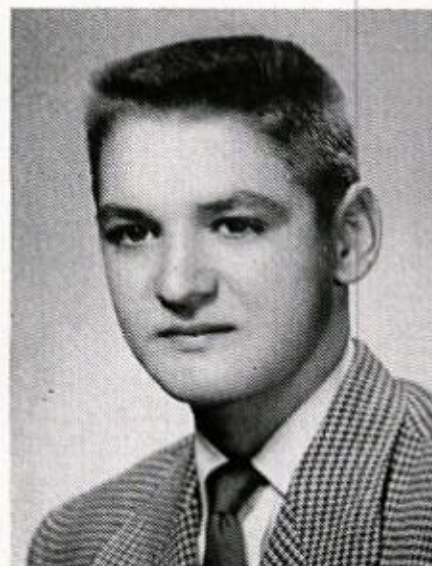

BARBARA A. NEWHARD

934 Dewey Avenue

"Oh, my goodness," is heard as "Hoagie" tackles another home-work assignment. She contributes her talent and time to the high school band and the church choir. A nursing career finds first place in Barbara's future.

College Preparatory. Band 1, 2, 3; Amptennian 3; Science Fair 2.

KENNETH J. NICKISCHER

1052 Main Street

Kenny's small size proves no handicap, for he is active in all sports. Saving pennants is another one of his past-time activities. Children of the future beware; he is planning to become a teacher. Clerical and Sales. Weight Club 2; Wrestling 2, 3; Senior Class Play.

Voices were merry, joy overflowed.

SALLY OPLINGER

2604 Cherryville Road

"Busy" Sally is an active member of the National Honor Society. Participating in the UN Junior Assembly, Vespers, and Senior Class Play round out her extra curricular activities. After graduation Sally's energy will be put to good use as she joins the nursing profession.

College Preparatory. Girls' Chorus 1, 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 1, 2, 3; National Honor Society 3; Senior Class Play; Commencement Committee.

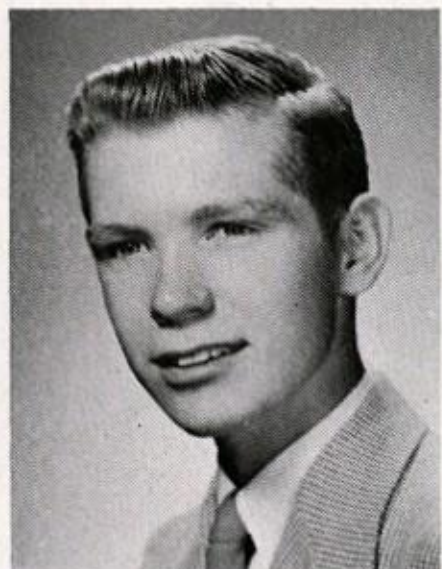

WAYNE OPLINGER

Northampton, R. D. 2

This "jockey" on four wheels is always on the move, working at Lerner's and dating girls. Spending his leisure time in Bath will be left behind when Wayne enrolls in college.

College Preparatory. Football 1.

CLAYTON G. OTT

Bath, R. D. 2

Clayton handles accordions, trumpets and model planes equally well. His duties as president of a model plane club don't keep him from chorus and band rehearsals or exploring the wide open spaces. Clayton is still undecided between contracting and music as a future occupation.

College Preparatory. Band 1, 2, 3; Chorus 1, 2, 3; Christmas Vespers 1, 2, 3; Spring Concert 1, 2, 3; Track 2, 3.

ELIZABETH B. PAYNTER

Walnutport, R. D. 2

The word energetic may aptly be applied to this senior, for in addition to her school work Betty has undertaken an after school job. In the little free time which remains she enjoys playing the piano and roller skating. Secretarial work or hairdressing is next.

Secretarial. Tri-Hi-Y 1; Courier 1, 2, 3.

LEROY F. PERSON

Bath, R. D. 2

Tall, dark, and quiet describes Leroy. Band keeps him busy while in school and baseball fills his spare time. After graduation it's a toss-up between a professional baseball career or draftsmanship for Leroy.

Industrial Arts. Band 2, 3.

ROSALEEN C. PETRUCELLI

353 West Street, Bath

Here's Rosie, our class's aspiring violin virtuoso. A willingness to help those in trouble and an exceptionally pleasant personality have made her many friends. Secretarial work and eventually teaching her favorite instrument lie ahead.

Secretarial. Tri-Hi-Y 2, 3; Senior Class Play; Amptennian.

NELSON J. RAU

1509 Dewey Avenue

"Rodger dodger you 'ole' codger!" and so signs on our "ham" radio operator. Electronics, "ham" operating, the Lehigh Valley Amateur Radio Club, and auto customizing captivate this Roxy Theatre magnate's interest. The Military Amateur Radio System and the Air Force Institute of Technology lie on the road to a successful career.

JOSEPH F. RECKER

Northampton, R. D. 1

The "Wrecker" is a suitable name for this senior who is district and regional wrestling champion. Joe, a recipient of the "Youth of the Month" award, finds enjoyment in outdoor life as well as in wrestling and other sports. At present he's faced with a dilemma: college or the army?

College Preparatory. Wrestling 1, 2, 3; Weight Club 1, 2, 3; N Club 1, 2, 3.

BEVERLY L. RECTOR

317 East 9th Street

Want to hear the latest gossip? See Bev, our loquacious band member. This peppy senior concocts excitement whether it's in school or at the roller skating rink. Our future R.N. will brighten any sick room.

College Preparatory. Band 1, 2, 3; Ensemble 1, 2; Girls' Chorus 1, 2, 3; Forensics; Spring Concert 1, 2, 3.

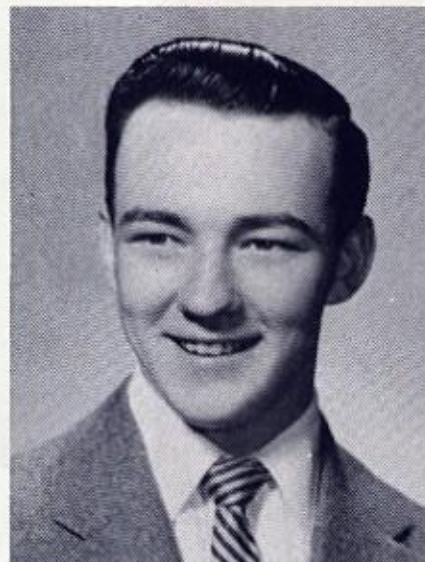

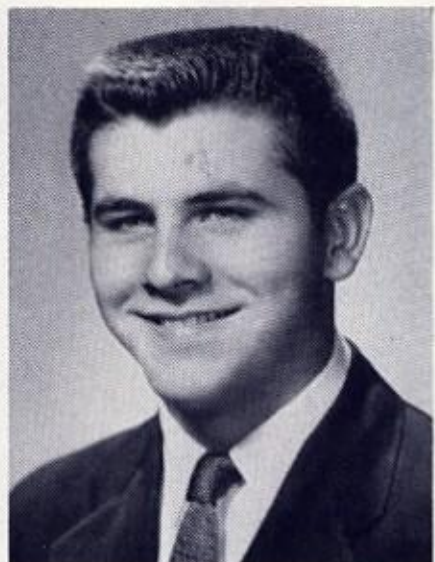

THOMAS REENOCK

2119 Dewey Avenue

A throaty laugh and the nickname "Grunitz" identify Thomas. After school he is seen at his favorite garage or working on the family car. Musical interests also help fill up his leisure time. However, after graduation he'll become a recruit of Uncle Sam.

College Preparatory. Basketball 1, 3; Football 1, 3; Band 1, 2, 3; Art Staff 3; Art Club 2, 3; Forensics 2; Spring Concert 2; Christmas Vespers 2.

CHARLES REPH

512 East Northampton Street, Bath

Building model cars, hunting and dancing keep this ladies' man busy. Band and tuning in on Boys' Chorus add to his curriculum. Neat dress and a saxophone may lead to a successful future for Charles.

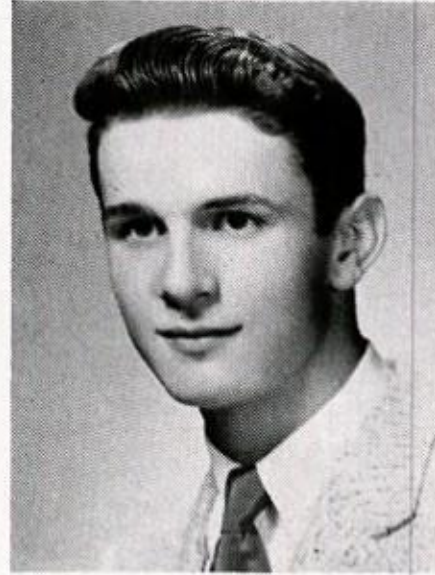

Commercial. Boys' Chorus 1, 2, 3; Band 1, 2, 3; Mixed Ensemble 1, 2, 3; Christmas Vespers 1, 2, 3; Spring Concert 1, 2, 3.

PHILIP J. RIDGELY

Northampton, R. D. 1

Grizz enjoys trapping muskrats (and girls). Our prize-winning Junior Speaker and star hoopster is also our National Honor Society President. Teaching Sunday School and attending church for 13 years with a perfect attendance are two of Phil's achievements. Either engineering or the Navy have next claim on our mighty mite.

College Preparatory. Junior Speaking Contest; Basketball 2, 3; Spring Concert 2.

DALE K. RODGERS

395 Howertown Road

Nuts! Screws! Bolts! Need any help with your car? Call on "Crash", our expert with a wrench and screw driver. Dale, an active member of the band, has many outside activities including carpentry, remodeling, and construction work. In the future we may find him as head of Rodgers Construction Co.

College Preparatory. Band 1, 2, 3.

NANCY JANE ROTH

1724 Washington Avenue

French fries and a Pepsi are Nancy's sources of energy. Roller skating, Tri-Hi-Y, swimming, and collecting records consume this energy. She is aspiring toward a secretarial career in some large firm.

Secretarial. Tri-Hi-Y 2, 3; Courier 2.

PEARL M. ROTH

Bath, R. D. 1

A gem as rare as this "Pearl" is hard to find. Her fine abilities have won her first prize in the Pennsylvania 4-H Club Week. Dramatics, reading, and sewing can't keep her from becoming a future R.N.

College Preparatory. Dramatics 3.

DEANNA J. SEILER

1858 Washington Avenue

As future music supervisor, Deanna is experienced in voice, flute, piccolo, organ, and piano. A superior rating in State Forensics further proves her ability. Fun-loving "De-de" also finds time for Ensemble, Band, horseback riding and her pet dog. Lebanon Valley College comes next.

College Preparatory. Girls' Chorus 1, 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 1, 2, 3; Girls' Ensemble 1, 2, 3; Mixed Ensemble 1, 2; Band 1, 2, 3; District Forensics 1, 2, 3; State Forensics 2; District Band 1, 2, 3; District Orchestra 2, 3; District Chorus 2, 3; State Orchestra 3; Amptennian 3; Accompanist 1, 2.

FRANCES G. SENSENBACH

333 Green Street, Bath

A friendly smile and a cheery hello are inseparable for this vivacious miss. Choir rehearsals, reading, and collecting movie star pictures employ this future nurse's time. This bashful blonde dreams of a white cap and Allentown General Hospital.

College Preparatory.

MARIE SEYER

1919 Canal Street

With a bobbing pony tail and a ridiculous laugh Marie is telling another joke. She enjoys Sodality, baby sitting, skating, and auto driving. Working at Newberry's helps her save for her little nest egg.

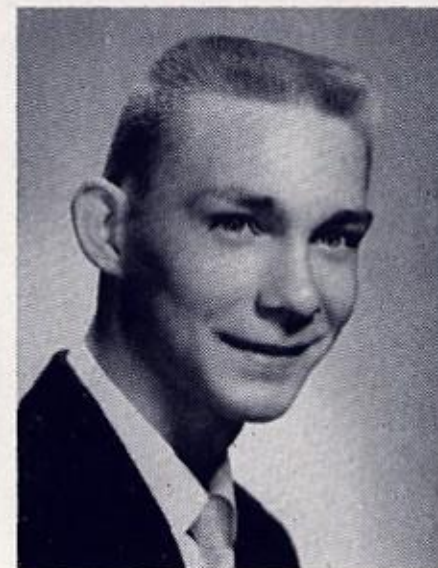

Clerical and Sales. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2, 3.

JOHN ALEN SHAFER

2608 Main Street

John, the comedian with lots of laughs, also runs a taxi for the fairer sex. Being president of Student Council occupies his time. After further study at the New Mexico School of Mines, he is hoping to become the future quarry engineer of the Portland Cement Company.

College Preparatory. Rifle Club 1; Baseball 1, 2, 3; Basketball 1; Student Council 3.

SYLVIA S. SHOEMAKER

Walnutport, R. D. 1

This go-getter is always willing to give a helping hand in Sunday School, Girl Scouts, or Luther League. Sylvia, our co-editor, has participated in the Junior Speaking Contest and Christmas Vespers as a speaker. Only time will tell whether nursing or teaching will be her profession.

College Preparatory. Girls' Chorus 1; Concrete Courier 2, 3; National Honor Society 3; Amptennian Co-editor 3; Christmas Vespers 2, 3; Spring Concert 1, 2; Commencement Committee; Mixed Chorus 1.

MARIE C. SHUNK

129 Washington Street, Bath

Marie's sweet disposition charms many toddlers on her baby-sitting jobs. Bus trips and post card collections rate high as her activities. In the future comes Beauty School.

College Preparatory. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2, 3; Amptennian 3.

ELEANOR L. SIEGFRIED

Bath, R. D. 2

Red hair has become Ellie's established trademark. A member of the band and chorus, she also serves as commissioner in Youth Fellowship as well as Sunday School pianist. Having won Honorable Mention in chemistry in the Science Fair will help her when she embarks on her nursing career.

College Preparatory. Band 1, 2, 3; Girls' Chorus 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 2, 3; Amptennian 3; Forensics 2; Science Fair 2; Art Exhibit 2.

TEGI-ANN SILFIES

Main Street, Bath

This speedy little miss can be seen dashing through the halls or racing to the cafeteria. "Spider" busies herself with carrying books home for friends, running for a seat on the bus, and writing letters to the Marines. Tegian surely has all the makings for an airline hostess.

College Preparatory. Chorus 1, 2; Christmas Vespers 1, 2; Amptennian 3; Spring Concert 1, 2; Student Council 3.

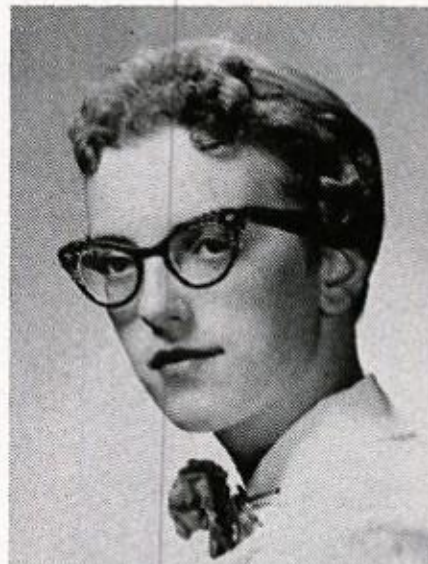

Scientists and speakers prepared with care.

THERESA SKRAPITS

408 East 12th Street

Need a new Chaplain? See vivacious Teddy at her part-time job for good suggestions. Anywhere "pizza" can be found, Teddy is sure to be. Swimming, attending Sodality meetings, and reading, fill this gal's schedule. For the future — airline hostess versus teacher.

College Preparatory. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2, 3; Courier 1, 2, 3.

JUDY A. SMITH

2151 Washington Avenue

Ring-g-g goes the telephone and our talkative miss is off again; either to "the diner", her second home, or wearing out shoe leather with the girls. A part time job and collecting records leaves Judy with little spare time. An undecided future lies ahead.

College Preparatory. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2, 3; Courier 1, 2, 3; Amptennian 3.

MARVIN P. SPADT

Walnutport, R. D. 2

Here's the Berlinsville ball club's fast ball hurler, Schultz. In addition to being an ardent sandlot sportsman he is also an automobile enthusiast. Marv soon plans to trade gabbing at Bert's for wings in the Air Force.

College Preparatory. Rifle Club 1.

JOHN R. SPANITZ, JR.

212 Main Street, Bath

Our Congressional "Washington Page" excels on the mats and cinders. Besides the Junior Speaking Contest and Forensics, Jack enjoys woodworking and eating the fish he has just caught. Tackling the books at Lehigh means another electrical engineer from NAJHS.

College Preparatory. Junior Speaking Contest; Wrestling 1, 2, 3; Track 1, 2, 3; Forensics 2; N Club 3 (Secretary); Senior Class Play.

BARBARA SPRINGER

Walnutport, R. D. 1

Barb's sense of humor has not been squelched by changing schools fourteen times. This ambitious, fun-loving girl has chosen NAJHS as her last Alma Mater. Dramatics, sports, and reading take up much of her spare time. The future will decide whether Barbara will enter a State Teachers College or Business School.

College Preparatory. Dramatics Club 3.

STEPHEN SZILAGYI

837 Washington Avenue

"Sil", the Jerry Lewis of senior high, thinks winter brings out his superior hunting qualities. Being elected to a fourth year as student councilman proves his efficiency. Night school is making it possible for the Fuller Company to employ another draftsman this June.

College Preparatory. Rifle Club 1; Council 1, 2, 3.

A year of study and pleasure flew.

JOSEPH R. TANCZOS

Danielsville, R. D. 1

Hunting or fishing anyone? Our man Joe is right there when it comes to contributing his ideas on these subjects. Joe likes playing center field for the Bath Legion ball team too. College and the engineering course are the future's main attractions for Joe.

College Preparatory. Rifle Club 2; Fishing Club 3; Baseball 3.

RICHARD C. TANCZOS

257 South Walnut Street, Bath

This boy has got to go . . . fishing and hunting! Bath's legion could not survive without this shortstop. Dickie's unexpected laugh and dark, curly hair attract the girls. His goal is divided between college and the Air Force.

College Preparatory. Rifle Club 1; Fishing Club 2; Baseball 2, 3.

FLORENCE L. TANZOSH

957 Washington Avenue

Slim, trim, and witty describe Flossie. This avid Philly fan enjoys dancing and going for walks. National Honor Society, Tri-Hi-Y, and Student Council wouldn't be the same without her. Flossie's future will be in the secretarial field.

Secretarial. Tri-Hi-Y Treasurer 1, 2, 3; National Honor Society 2, 3; Student Council 3 (Secretary); Amptennian 3; Commencement Committee.

GLENN D. TARAS

Walnutport, R. D. 1

Whether he's on the football field, on the rifle range, or in the gym, not one strand of Glenn's glossy brown hair is ever out of place. He does a "neat" jitterbug at the Cherryville dances. The future is a toss between the State Police or the Army.

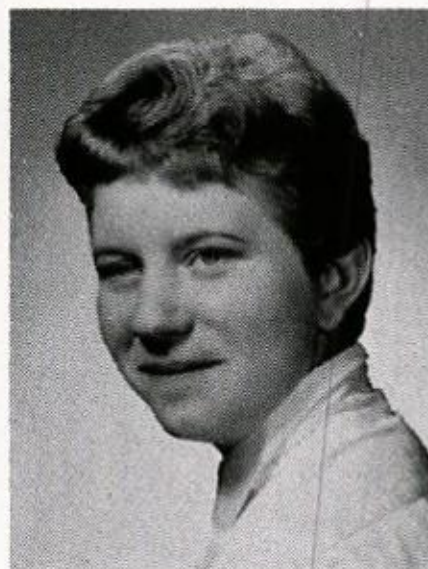

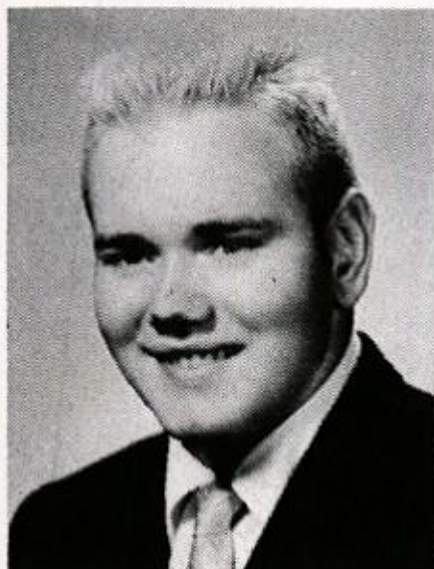

College Preparatory. Rifle Club 1; Football 1; Gym Exhibition 2; Science Fair 3.

RICHARD TARNOW

Bethlehem, R. D. 2

Hi! This is the familiar greeting of the "Bull" when he's swimming, skating, or dancing at Castle Rock. He's attracted to automobiles, model planes, and girls (naturally). Eating and joking, Dick looks to the Army for a career.

Clerical and Sales. Boys' Chorus 1; Weight Club 1; Football 1; Wrestling 2, 3; Christmas Vespers 1.

ELEANOR M. TEMMEL

417 East 9th Street

Blonde hair and green eyes describe Ellie, an avid Yankee fan. The Juicy Fruit Company's best advertiser boasts quite a collection of baseball pictures. Roller skating, dancing, and music keep her leisure time filled. The future will find Eleanor happy as a secretary and housewife.

VERONICA WERETTA

513 East 11th Street

Mention traveling, and Ronnie's eyes light up. When not busily working at Kroope's, she loves visiting new places and attending sport events. Air line hostess and secretary vie for first place in Veronica's future.

Secretarial. Girls' Chorus 1; Mixed Chorus 1; Tri-Hi-Y 3.

LEROY H. WERKHEISER

Bath, R. D. 1

LeRoy's ability in building model planes led him to the presidency of a model airplane club. Although in band and chorus, he manages to find time for his track practice, too. His love for working with cars will lead him into mechanics with the Navy.

Clerical and Sales. Band 1, 2, 3; Chorus 1, 2, 3; Track 2, 3; Christmas Vespers 1, 2, 3.

RALPH W. WERNER

Northampton, R. D. 1

Here is our class brain, "handsome" Ralph. Watching television and the girls are Ralph's favorite pastimes. The "Castle Rock" would never be the same without him. His goal is divided between college and the Air Force.

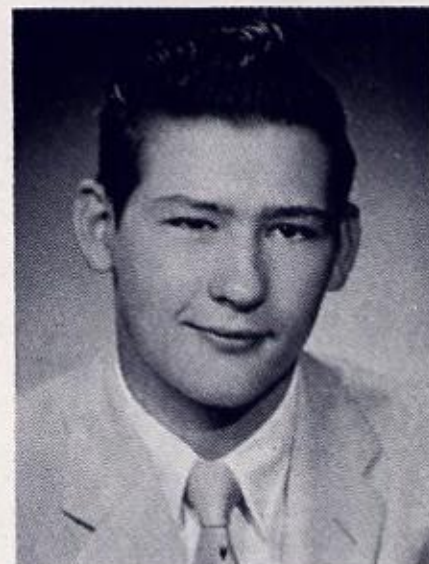

College Preparatory. Baseball 1, 2, 3; Football 1.

RICHARD A. WERNER

2166 Main Street

Is your old radio on the blink? Richard is a whiz at working on old radios. Sports, radios, and watching television occupy his spare time. His hope for the future? You guessed it! A radio and television repairman.

Industrial Arts. Rifle Club 1.

GIZELLA H. WETZEL

Bath, R. D. 1

"Need help in figuring your budget?" Gizella, our math wizard, is hard to beat. Her participation in Civil Defense work further proves her capabilities. Her other interests include baby sitting and hiking. The future finds Gizella in either a nurse's or Wave's uniform.

College Preparatory. Tri-Hi-Y 1, 2, 3; Courier 2.

BRENDA I. WILLIAMS

2193 Main Street

Wherever "Do si do your partner!" is heard, you're sure to find Willy, our photographer and holder of the Girl Scout Curved Bar. Brenda's life revolves around choir, bowling, Youth Fellowship, and lifesaving courses. What better preparation could there be for a future receptionist than writing letters?

College Preparatory. Girls' Chorus 1, 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 1, 2, 3; Photo Club 1, 2, 3; Amptennian 3; Student Council 1.

To give thanks for all bestowed by you.

JAMES A. ZAUN

Northampton, R. D. 1

Good natured is Jim the "music man" with participation in band, spring concert, and forensics to prove his ability. When not working, hunting and baseball hit the spot for Jim. And he loves to show off his new car. Jim now helps in his father's business while deciding on his future.

College Preparatory. Band 1, 2, 3; Spring Concert 1, 2; District and State Forensics 2.

DORIS A. ZWICKL

Keeping within tradition, the energetic juniors prepared for their new role as up and coming seniors. Their term as juniors proved to be quite fruitful, for it succeeded in turning out a number of orators from the annual speaking contest, a fleet of new drivers, proud owners of class rings, and experienced travelers from the trip to the Franklin Institute.

Next year, along with being seniors, they will find themselves in the midst of a new speeded-up school program. They will work diligently to perform the many essential functions necessary for taking over the main controls as seniors.

The Sophomores Aim for '60

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS

John Anthony, Treasurer; Susan Hayne, Vice President; Gloria Michael, Secretary; Fred Heffelfinger, President

Between the freshman and sophomore years, our sedate sophomores took their big step from junior high to senior high and assumed their new duties in a world of biology herbariums, timed writings in typing, and Latin translations. Budgeting time for extra-curricular activities was only one more of the new changes for the sophomores.

New subjects and a new schedule were all part of the busy world in senior high. Although they encountered many new problems, they faced the experience of solving them with determination.

As forth-coming juniors, they anxiously anticipated their new duties and experiences next year.

At the Top of the Ladder Now.

The junior high school is composed of seven seventh grades, eight eighth grades, and eight ninth grades. This year it housed 519 students.

Representing the junior high school body was its student council. One member from each classroom was chosen through elections to represent the students from the individual home rooms. The student council helped to plan the social affairs of the junior high school. It also ran the Red Cross campaign to fill gift boxes for children overseas. Mr. William Laubach, the faculty adviser for the council, helped the council to plan their meetings and to keep a good account of all the proceedings.

The junior high school council takes up the next item on the agenda.

Curriculum and Clubs

Mr. Webster defines curriculum "as the course of study offered by an educational institution." At NAJHS the student is offered a wide variety of courses from which to choose. The academic or college preparatory course offers all the subjects needed for entrance into an accredited college or university. The secretarial course prepares the student for work in the secretarial field. Also offered are the clerical and sales and the general courses.

No matter what course the student chooses he is always aware of the ever present medium upon which he writes and studies, PAPER. Nearly every student works long and hard preparing at least one notebook, the accumulation of his knowledge. Newspapers affect the language students; LE TEMPS and JUGENDPOST are among the foreign newspapers that must be translated.

Northampton High offers the student a variety of clubs and organizations as well as courses. In this manner a student can pursue other interests aside from the strict academic subjects.

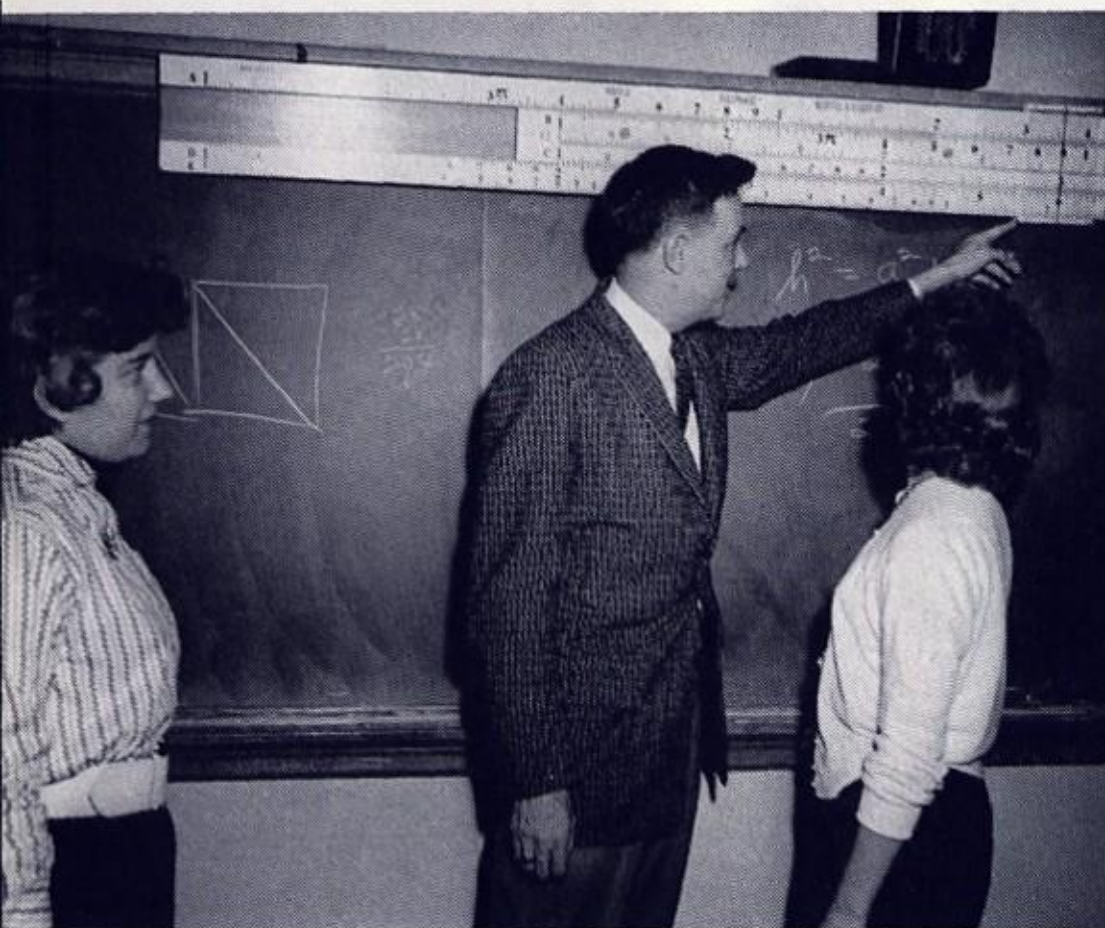

The student council serves as the student's voice in school policy. The school newspaper is written and circulated by the staff of the Concrete Courier. The Amptennian, the school yearbook, is edited by the senior staff.

Other activities offering the student opportunities for self-expression and personality development are provided by the music department. Marching and concert bands, orchestras, ensembles, and girls' and mixed choruses are but a few of the organizations sponsored by this department.

Wishful Thinking . . . an Answer Book

Mr. Reiff shows us the short cut.

BUSINESS MATH

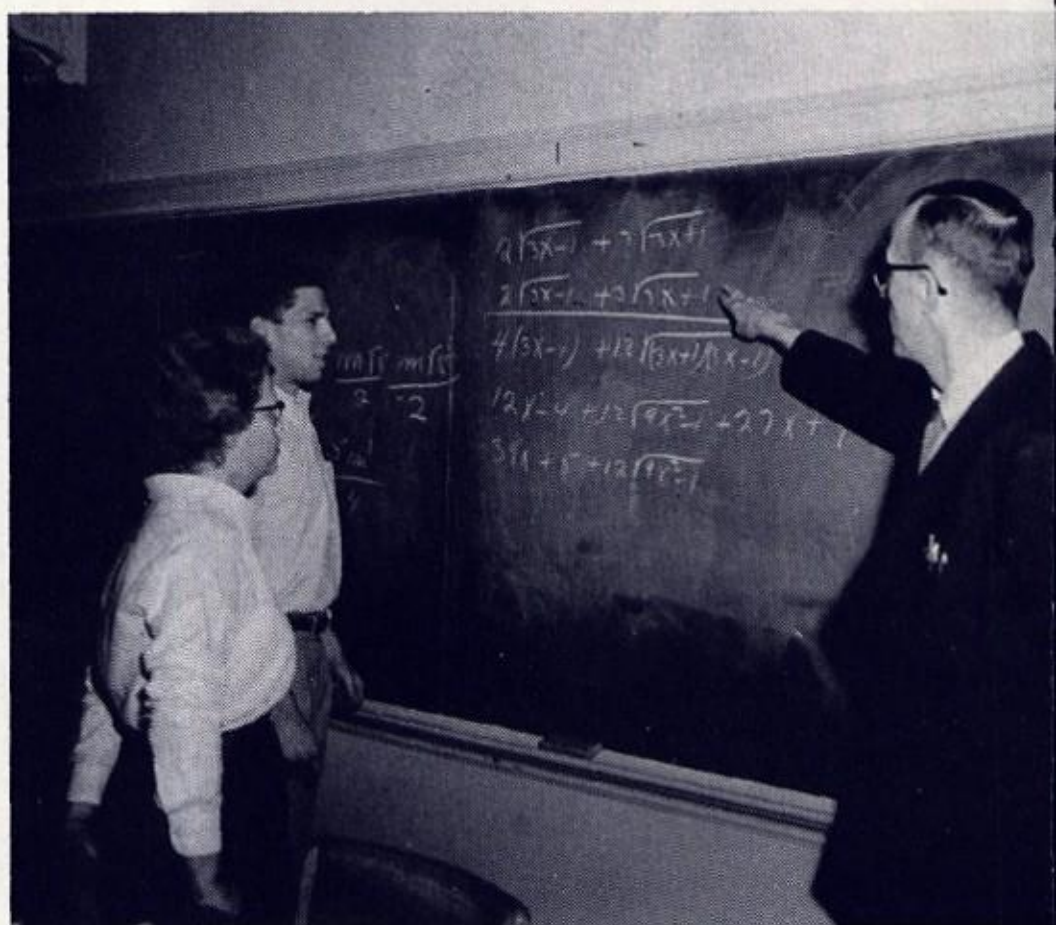

An open mind and a sharp pencil are definite requisites for a satisfactory math class. With the help and guidance of Mr. Reiff the business mathematics students learned to solve problems of all lengths and types. Problems of the business world ranging from bank accounts, stocks and bonds, discount rates, notes, and loans comprised the carefully planned lessons. As a result of these classes students became informed on actual business transactions which would be useful to them after graduation. After completing the course, the students were better prepared for financial problems and decisions which would confront them. As a whole, they were prepared to step into their position as informed consumers, stockholders, and citizens.

ALGEBRA

With the government's concern for an accelerated science and mathematics program, our seniors and underclassmen found themselves in the midst of advanced math.

Students in business math and bookkeeping attacked their work with greater zeal than ever before. A speeded up solid geometry and trig program was presented to the seniors in preparation for those college careers. The juniors found themselves tackling solid along with their usual struggle with plane geometry, and they are looking forward to calculus which will be added to next year's senior high schedule. The sophomores and freshmen who are just entering the realms of higher mathematics will reap the benefits of the completely advanced math program.

Successful future engineers, technicians, and businessmen require a greater knowledge of math. The program's end result promises to produce better prepared mathematicians to take their place in our scientific world today.

SCIENCE

The science courses have taught the students about their environment and the many man-made machines which surround them. In the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades the students studied general science which gave the basic essentials of science without great detail. It provided a background for the more advanced sciences. Biology was studied by the tenth graders. This course included study of plants and animals, particularly those of this area. The science course given to the students in the eleventh grade was physics. Matter, energy, and their physical changes were studied. Physics included a detailed study of the atom, light, heat, sound, mechanical, and electrical energy. Chemistry was the seniors' science. The composition of matter, its changes, and its uses were included in this course. With the arrival of the space age these courses were a necessary step toward maintaining this country's supremacy in the world and space.

ENGLISH

The purpose of the English course was to teach students to write, speak, listen, and read more effectively. The high school course taught correct English usages through studying grammar and their practical applications through original compositions and other forms of writing. Time was also devoted to vocabulary-building and speech activities. The thoughts and sentiments of great men, past and present, were examined through the study of the literatures of America, Britain, and other European countries.

GERMAN

"Sprechen sie Deutsch?" A person who has not studied this subject has missed an education and an entertaining experience. German class illustrated the beauty of Germany and the customs of its peoples. In class one learned to speak and write this Teutonic language. The manner in which it was taught provided the students with a good background for college or for every day life in our Pennsylvania Dutch area.

FRENCH

Two classes of French — one of the first year and one of second year — were taught in Northampton High School this year.

Maitresse Mademoiselle Laubach who has traveled in France, was able to give the students a vivid picture of the French people, their culture, and their country.

Grammar and vocabulary were stressed more in the first year class.

Second year French students also learned grammar and vocabulary, but more emphasis was placed on conversational French and reading of French books.

Both groups of students enjoyed learning popular French songs and carols and children's games.

Understanding Ourselves and Others

PROBLEMS OF DEMOCRACY

In problems of democracy our chief purpose was to study the makeup and functions of our government. The front page of the newspaper was as vital as our text books as we evaluated and discussed the daily current news events. Many hours were spent by the problems of democracy students as they toiled over their notebooks so they could complete them before the deadline. In P of D we learned that developing a sound mind and a good character were just as important as learning chemistry equations and Pythagorem theorem. Now, for the first time we began to realize the meaning of a government "of, by, and for the people." Other important phases included in this course were the studies of our Pan-American neighbors, juvenile delinquency, filing income tax returns, and planning future goals. In these ways the basic ideals were laid for making us better citizens and developing a stronger government for the future.

No news is good news.

$I.Q. = \frac{M.A.}{C.A.} \times 100$ — What's yours?

SOCIAL LIVING

Social living, which was offered to juniors and seniors, dealt mainly with the ideas and principles of elementary psychology. The objective of the course was to create a better understanding of human behavior. Students discovered that, in order to be more effective individuals, they first had to be able to understand themselves. However, self-understanding could not be achieved until they had learned why others behaved as they did. The relationship between heredity and environment was studied and their effects upon personality compared. Later, extensive studies were made in the fields of mental health, emotions, growth and learning, intelligence and reasoning, and courtship, marriage, and vocational guidance. Reports and motion pictures concerning these topics enhanced class discussion. Upon acquainting themselves with the various facets of human behavior, students realized that by understanding themselves and others around them, they could live happier and more effective lives.

SHORTHAND - TYPING

Speed and accuracy were the goals of our shorthand translators and competent typists. "Dear Sir and Sincerely yours" were familiar shorthand phrases to these secretaries, and earning typing certificates gave proof of their ability to master the typewriter keyboard in producing good business correspondence.

Business Week provided a genuine experience in office work. The girls practiced their training and tested their knowledge by performing efficient work which would satisfy their employer. Good habits and neat dress added to their office personality.

Our future stenogs, efficient typists, accurate bookkeepers, and master ditto operators had a busy curriculum, in which they learned their particular jobs to perfection. And at the end of their secretarial and business training they will enter the world of business well-equipped for the duties they will encounter.

WOOD SHOP

Chests, chairs, and tables seen outside the cafeteria were the works of our carpenters. Under the careful supervision of Mr. Alek Erdosy the boys progressed from "wood butchers" to carpenters.

Not all the work was mechanical, for periodically tests were given to students to determine whether or not they could build finished projects from blueprints.

The practical application of what they learned was also put to use when they helped build various sets used for stage productions in the auditorium.

After battered thumbs, trial and error learning, and butchered wood, the senior boys were able to get a job using their knowledge of carpentry.

METAL SHOP

The tradesmen of tomorrow were born in the basement of N.A.J.H.S., namely the shops. Here boys who worked well with their hands were on even keel with students who worked well with their heads. During the day all sorts of noise issued forth from this busy place. The student had a choice of several branches of the metal shop ranging from mechanical drawing and art metal to leathercraft and foundry. Mr. Howard Dotter, the instructor, taught the boys the power tools. Safety first was one of the prime lessons taught in metal shops.

A tool in the hand is worth one ashtray.

Ink up the press and get her rolling.

PRINTING

The odor of fresh ink, the whirring of the presses, and the noise of the machinery indicated that these amateur printers were performing another of their endless tasks. Assorting and cleaning type, feeding the presses, cutting paper, and setting type were all included in a single day's job at the print shop. Booster tags, programs, tickets for various occasions, and, of course, report cards were the result of their skill and workmanship.

Patterns and Recipes

The home-making classes taught the basic essentials for creating a well-organized home — sewing and cooking. In sewing the students learned the fine points of material, thread, and pattern selection. Styles were selected to suit the individual. The sewing machines and other equipment in the sewing room were used to make the styles selected. The use of cosmetics and posture were important studies.

The students also learned to cook and bake. They received new recipes and new ideas on the preparation of foods. They were taught the value of foods and how to prepare well-balanced meals. Table setting and furniture arranging were also introduced. Equipment in the cooking room included all the utensils needed for preparing foods plus a washer and a dryer to teach the students other important domestic duties. These classes were an essential step toward developing efficient housewives.

Building Bodies and Minds

BOYS GYM

A welcome change from the daily routine of studies was the gym period. In this push-button world the physical development of the body has fallen by the wayside; however, the Physical Education Department is combating this lapse. Under the capable instruction of Mr. Al Erdosy the boys learned the proper use of the trampoline, parallel bar, and the rings. The boys also participated in various contests in calisthenics to determine the fitness of their own body. Through the football, basketball, and softball games which they played, the boys learned the meaning of teamwork and sportsmanship.

It's all in the ear — equilibrium.

GIRLS HEALTH PROGRAM

The girls health program included regular gym classes under the supervision of Mrs. Helen Wanisko and health classes under Mrs. Virginia Herman.

The gym program consisted of the trampoline, parallel bars, and rings in winter and baseball, soccer, field hockey, and volley ball in spring. Gym classes provided a suitable means for releasing tension and pent-up energy. It also provided a means of keeping us physically fit. In recent years the Physical Education Department presented a gym exhibition in order to keep the public informed of our gymnastic activities. This year the gym had been opened to the public for work-outs on Tuesday and Thursday evenings when no school activity was scheduled.

MUSIC THEORY CLASS

The music theory and appreciation class which was absent from the curriculum for several terms was re-established this year. It was an elective course opened to senior students and was designed to further the musical knowledge and appreciation of those who chose it. During its bi-weekly sessions, composers, their works, and their contributions to the development of music were discussed; theory was studied and recordings were played and analyzed.

In May the class attended a rehearsal of the distinguished Bach Choir and found the experience to be profitable and interesting.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Instrumental music classes were designed to teach band members better techniques in playing their musical instruments. The students were prepared not only for playing in the band but also for solo or ensemble work. The instruments were classified according to their grouping in the band and each group was scheduled for class once a week. The school had several instruments on which the students were permitted to play and practice. Often a student learned to play several instruments which the school owned. The course not only improved the quality of the band but also contributed to the musical knowledge of the students.

ART DEPARTMENT

Our art department, under the direction of Mr. Melvin Kleppinger, offered a great variety of media to suit the taste of each student as he perfected some special art project. The students, while putting their imagination and dexterous fingers to work, learned the proper techniques in using the different media — pastel, water color, tempera, charcoal, oils, and many others. They learned what amazing things could be done in silk screening, clay work, plaster of Paris molds, and ceramics. Some students undertook a new challenge this year in mosaic work. Beautiful works of art, created by our students in art class, decorated the walls of our halls; figures of clay and also ceramic pieces filled our showcase. Demonstrations in the different media were conducted by the students in our annual Art Exhibition in spring. Special projects and designs — conventional, abstract, and realistic — created by the students during the past year were also displayed.

Permits Are A Necessity

LIBRARY

Our well-equipped and up-to-date library enabled the students to educate themselves in several ways. The encyclopedias, dictionaries, and world books gave us information for research work, term papers, and homework assignments. The newspapers and large assortment of magazines brought us widespread knowledge about current events, fashions, and well-known personalities. There was also a fine selection of books for reading in our "free" hours. Miss Fluck, our library instructor, and her competent and precise assistants kept the library running smoothly.

Two cents overdue.

DRIVING TRAINING

Also included in this year's curriculum was a special course which enabled all students who had reached the required age to become skillful drivers. Here for the first time many driver-training students made their first attempts behind the controls. Besides learning how to operate the car, they were also taught how to cope with various road conditions and traffic hazards, courtesy of the road, the motor vehicle code, and the necessity for every good driver — safety. By learning these basic factors today, our highways will become safer places tomorrow.

Activities

Some called them extra-curricular activities, some called them diversion, but nevertheless everyone enjoyed them. Dances, dialogues, and delightful times were all part of the activity program. PAPER played an important role in our sphere of activities at NAJHS. Posters, programs, and proffered tickets helped to persuade the prospective customer to witness the event.

Open House which was held twice this past year was the night when the parents and the teachers conferred in order to solve any problems the student might have.

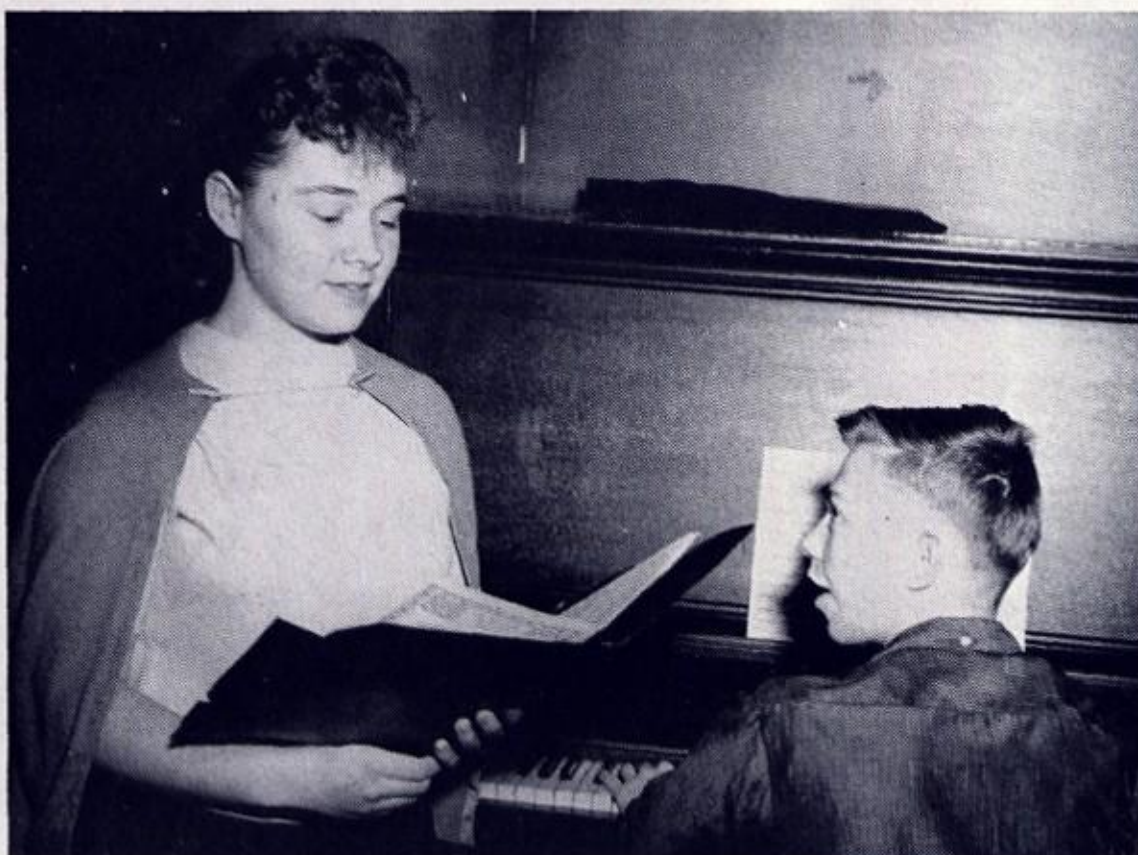

The square dances sponsored by the Exchange Club, the Honor Society's hop, and the two proms gave our "Arthur Murray students" ample room to exhibit their talents.

The music department acquired recognition through their annual presentation of the Spring Concert and the Christmas Vespers.

The Senior Class play, the Junior Speaking Contest, and the weekly assemblies gave the loquacious or musically inclined students a chance to display their qualities.

The pet project of the science department, the Science Fair, was held last spring. In addition to the Lehigh Valley Science Fair held at Muhlenberg, Northampton held a local fair in the Community Center on February 25 and 26.

For 165 students at NAJHS, namely the seniors, the most important activity of their short lives thus far took place one night in June. With mixed emotions they took their place on the stage and received their diplomas, the most important piece of PAPER they have acquired so far.

The Senior High Student Council has provided leadership and guidance for the whole student body. With John Shafer as president, and Mr. Alfred Laubach as adviser, the council sponsored many projects and accomplished many improvements in the school. Among its campaigns were "Courtesy Week" and "Compliment-Each-Other Week." They also sponsored the "Snowflake Fantasy" and the Junior Red Cross drive. They held discussions on pupil and school improvement; helpful tips from these discussions appeared in their minutes, which were later discussed in the homeroom meetings. They also answered questions raised in the homeroom meetings. The representatives of the student body have been leaders in developing good school spirit.

The National Honor Society was composed of a select group who represent the highest fifteen per cent of the senior class. Scholarship, however, was not the sole criterion for membership; in addition, students were chosen according to their qualifications in character, leadership, and service to the school and community. The purpose of the society was to promote high standards of scholarship and citizenship. Under the expert guidance of Miss Marion Laubach, the society conducted monthly meetings during which its members planned interesting and enjoyable activities. During the month of November the society sponsored a successful dance,

"The Harvest Hop," in the high school gymnasium. It was at this dance that the newly formed school dance band, under the direction of Mr. Raymond Becker, made its debut. Plans were made to purchase something in the name of the Honor Society to be dedicated for use in the high school which is to be built in the near future. Bowling parties and social meetings at the homes of members were favorite activities. The last get-together of the year was the annual spring picnic at which the new members were welcomed into the society and acquainted with its purposes and ideals.

Now that initiation is over, it wasn't so bad.

One of the most worth-while organizations provided for the senior girls was the twelfth grade Tri-Hi-Y. The girls worked on a project, improving dress and behavior of fellow students, called "Courtesy Week." This year the girls also sold Northampton High School Buttons to the students in order to raise money for their welfare work. This project consisted of aiding community agencies and making Christmas and Easter baskets for the Good Shepherd Home and needy families. Speakers were also engaged to come to talk to the girls on problems confronting teenagers.

Review of the book, Teen Talk, played a large role in the girls' activities.

Under the capable and qualified leadership of Mrs. Hauke, the senior Tri-Hi-Y girls have worked to become better students of their school and more alert citizens of their communities.

The Beta Tri-Hi-Y Club, under the direction of Miss Marion Laubach, spent a busy year on their varied projects which aimed to improve our school and community. The purpose of the Tri-Hi-Y, "Creating, maintaining, and extending throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character," was successfully attained through their many duties and projects. The programs of the club ranged from the special officers' training camp in the summer at Cedar Crest College to their farewell party in June. Recognizing their duties and using "service" as their watchword, they sold refreshments at the school basketball games and wrestling matches. The girls carried on seven weeks of animated "Teen Talk" discussions. With the objective of the club, "To seek, to find, to share," these girls in red, white, and blue rendered a fine service wherever they were needed in the school or community.

The tenth grade Tri-Hi-Y clubs, under the supervision of Mrs. Elizabeth Geiger and Mrs. Harriet Hallman, directed their combined efforts toward achieving "clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, and clean living." With these goals in mind the girls upheld the standards of the Tri-Hi-Y organization, "to seek, to find, to share, and to create, maintain and to extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character."

Besides maintaining the goals of the club, the girls performed various services, such as selling mums for the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game.

With this slogan in mind, "Wishing won't do it, but saving will," the members of the club completed their yearly project of selling Savings stamps each Wednesday. Another typical Tri-Hi-Y project was buying Golden Story Books for the children at the Good Shepherd Home at Christmas.

Having discussions of "Teen Talk" rounded out the organization's special activities. With this diversified program of character building and rendering service to the school and community, this organization certainly achieved the goals it established for itself.

Something Old . . . Something New

Keeping students well-informed on school affairs was the chief objective of the Concrete Courier. The school newspaper has carried through its function by reporting school activities and personalities, and keeping sports enthusiasts abreast of coming events and the school's athletic standing. A bit of humor was added to the paper through the "Word A Day" column and the latest "Gleanings" of chatter and gossip.

This year the Courier's staff procedure was entirely revolutionized to facilitate editing and publication. An editor-in-chief plus two assistant editors were appointed by Mr. Harry Wall, the paper's adviser. The responsibility for each page was designated to one individual who checked her committee's articles and submitted them to the typists. Feature writers were also chosen to compile timely information, either informative or amusing, concerning the month's happenings and compose it into suitable articles. One of the more artistic members of the staff was selected to make block prints to emphasize the newspaper's editorials.

A new club, sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association, was added to the high school's extra-curricular activities this past year. This organization was the Hi-Y. The purpose of the club is "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character." The completely male organization, advised by Mr. Dale Shoemaker, was formed in December. Although the club began in the middle of the year, its membership grew rapidly, and at the end of the school year twenty-six boys belonged to it. After the preliminary activities of becoming chartered and affiliated, the club devoted itself to giving its members one period each week in which they could express themselves freely and constructively. In keeping with its platform of clean speech, clean scholarship, clean sports, and clean living the Hi-Y not only participated in pertinent group discussions with guest speakers but also competed with other Hi-Y organizations in athletic contests.

Who Done It?

The process of publishing the 1958 Amptennian actually began during the last weeks of our junior year when the editorial staff first met in Mrs. Clauser's room and elected two co-editors and a sports editor. The real work began upon our return to school in September. The editorial staff chose a theme and immediately began to compose the yearbook's written contents. After the secretaries typed the articles, they were sent to the printers. The photographers and the art staff merged talents in planning and developing photographs which were then sent to the layout staff which was responsible for composing and setting up the pages throughout the book. While this work was going on, the business staff was contacting advertisers and patrons in order that the yearbook could be successfully financed.

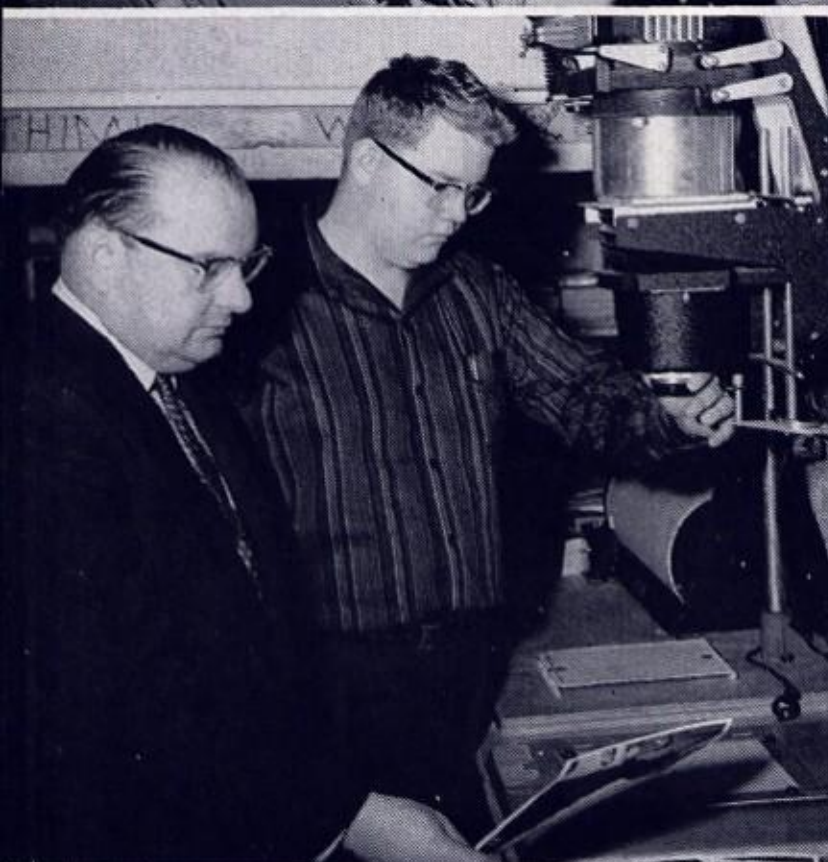

February was the busiest month; extra meetings were called and rush deadlines had to be met. Staff members were proud on that day in April when it was announced that seventy-two pages were ready for printing. The hectic days decreased in number as the completed portion of the book increased. The result of the year's work was evident during the last days of school as proud seniors distributed the fruit of their literary efforts—the 1958 Amptennian.

The senior high school's largest vocal group was the mixed chorus made up of the approximately seventy members of the girls' chorus and forty members of the boys' chorus. Through the efforts of its directors, Mrs. Thelma Santee and Mr. Raymond Becker, and through the co-operation of the members, the chorus helped to present an outstanding Christmas Vesper Program in which the birth of Christ was depicted through song.

Early in April the Chorus participated in the third annual Choral Clinic with the Catasauqua High School mixed chorus. Mr. V. Rutch was the guest director.

Late April brought the Spring Concert at which time compositions ranging from folk music and novelty tunes to religious and classical works were performed for a large and appreciative audience.

Eleven members of the organization were selected to represent our school in the Eastern District High School Chorus Festival which was held in Palmerton, Pennsylvania, in February.

The girls' ensemble was a selected group of twenty-six girls picked from the larger girls' chorus under the direction of Mrs. Thelma Santee. The group devoted much time and effort to the development of proper vocal habits, expression, and the establishment of a varied repertoire.

During the course of the school year the ensemble was called upon to represent our school by singing at various community and social functions. It was especially honored when it was invited to perform for the District Rotary Conference which was held in Atlantic City, New Jersey. There the girls sang for Rotarians from more than forty organizations.

The Christmas Vespers was a significant program among the school activities in which the group participated.

For the March Forensics the girls worked on two songs, one a capella and one with piano accompaniment, both of which had to be memorized and sung as perfectly as possible. Forensics represented not only hard work but also an experience which will long be remembered.

The spring concert attracted many local and out-of-town people. The ensemble worked hard in conjunction with the band and chorus to present an interesting and varied program.

Commencement vespers ended a year full of excitement, hard work, and pleasant memories for the ensemble.

This musically inclined group, under the direction of Mr. Raymond Becker, has entertained us with popular, classical, and martial music throughout our school calendar. Good showmanship at assemblies, pep rallies, Halloween parades, Pennsylvania Forensic and Music League contests, and the Junior and Senior High School Music Festivals, were the results of those long Monday and Friday rehearsals. Military drills, fancy formations, and precision marching held our attention at those frosty pre-game and half-time football game drills. A selected ensemble furnished the musical fare at all dramatic events including the Senior Class Play, the Junior Speaking Contest, and the Commencement Program.

Every two years the band is given a trip to New York City in appreciation for their extra efforts and rehearsals. This year the band made the trip in May.

The year's events were rounded out by our own Black and Orange on march at the annual Memorial Day Parade services at Northampton and an excellent concert at the Community Band Shell.

The year was climaxed as the big day arrived in June when the band was a special attraction at Dorney Park for the annual Northampton Day activities.

The first school dance band in years was organized last October, under the direction of Mr. Raymond Becker. It was composed of eleven members of the regular high school band and a vocal soloist.

These "swingin' cats" made their first public appearance at The National Honor Society's fall dance, the "Harvest Hop." This performance was pronounced a grand success in the Concrete Courier reviews and also by comments among the students. To fulfill the public demand, they frequently played at the Teen Age Center and gained additional fame.

Miss Betty Black's newly formed Senior High Dramatic Club started off the year with a far-sighted program of study and experimentation in stage techniques. After completing this survey of theatrical methods the group read over several scripts, choosing two, "A Date with Paul" and "The Wise Freshmen" for assembly presentation.

Dividing into two groups, the members then applied their newly acquired knowledge to the production of the plays. After weeks of preparation came the opening day, and the program was received with praise and applause. It was a successful first season for our ambitious new troupe.

An added highlight to Northampton High School were the majorettes and color guards. These colorful groups paraded our school colors in various Halloween parades and half-time reviews. For the first time the majorettes twirled at home basketball games under the direction of Sandra Herd, head majorette. The squads were captained by Ann Michalgyk, head color guard, and Fannie Greene, the drum majorette. The entire organization is under the direction of Mr. Raymond Becker, the director of bands. The Northampton Memorial parade in May climaxed a busy year for these twenty-one girls.

Boosters of the Big N

These energetic girls, under the coaching of Mrs. Helen Wanisko, led our football fans into a rousing cheer as our champion team went running down the field for another touchdown. Their job was not complete, however, because they also "pepped up" the time-outs during basketball season. Headed by Louise Bollman, the only senior on the squad, they worked faithfully to perfect their regular cheers and formulate new ones. With vim and vigor the girls in their colorful black and orange uniforms, were an indispensable part of our sports program.

Back row: M. Hassler, S. Zaharchuk, M. Vasilowsky, J. Horvath. Front Row: B. Kopfer, L. Bollman, D. Chehuly, J. Newhard.

The N Club, under the supervision of Mr. Harry Witemeyer, was open to anyone acquiring an "N" either by the activity point system or by participating in one of the major sports. The members of the "N" Club tried to promote good sportsmanship and set clean living as their goal. Sponsoring dances, selling booster tags, and obtaining ads for the "Turkey Day" program were the projects undertaken to purchase the varsity "N" sweaters, a token of merit for all three-letter men.

Row 1: S. Kopfer, A. Michalgyk, M. Lapsonski, B. Brobst, E. Siegfried, M. Barrall, F. Greene. Row 2: A. Schisler, F. Heffelfinger, G. Bartholomew, R. Anthony, C. Stettler, P. Bruchak, J. Spanitz, M. A bit of imagination, quick thinking, and a little time and effort were the essentials needed by these off-the-scene members of the stage crew under the direction of Mr. Harry Witemeyer. Pulling the curtains, focusing the spot light, throwing switches, and producing a variety of effects of colors for our stage spectacles were the tasks required of this group of capable boys. Besides highlighting our special events such as Christmas Vespers, Senior Class Play, Junior Speaking Contest, and Senior High Spring Concert, they also controlled the switchboard for our weekly assemblies.

Under the supervision of Mr. Papp this group of amateur photographers tried to capture many unusual incidents which would live forever in the form of a photograph.

In Photography Club the members learned the fundamentals of picture taking such as composition, printing, developing, and enlarging. The chief objective of this year's organization was to win one of the numerous prizes offered in the annual spring contest sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company.

Getting Their Kicks

Under the supervision of their competent sponsor, Mr. Weir, this group of marksmen strove for perfection in hitting the bull's eye. Besides mastering their shooting ability this group of young sportsmen also acquired the fundamentals of firearms such as reloading shells, learning ballistics, careful aiming, and the anatomy and care of firearms. Trying to equal their supervisor, the possessor of coveted shooting titles and trophies, was a project in itself for these amateur sportsmen.

The gym team, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Wanisko, mastered new techniques in performing arduous gymnastic feats. Precision was developed on the mats while they learned new tumbling stunts. The parallel bars helped perfect skill and muscular coordination, while the trampoline helped develop form. The girls were taught the fundamental techniques in performing with agility on the gym apparatus.

After many spills, they developed grace and ease in mastering difficult routines in tumbling. The hours spent during the gym team periods were filled with much activity, as the girls worked hard in perfecting these different skills on the various gym apparatus.

Sock Hops

The National Honor Society Dance was a success — as you can see.

There were no "wallflowers" at the senior party.

The "walk" is popular now.

Swing your partner, John.

"Let's go to the Hop!" Whether it was the Harvest Hop or the Sock Hop, everyone had a merry time at this year's school-sponsored dances. Classrooms and books were forgotten on these eventful evenings as friends and classmates danced away their cares. The first dance of the year was the Harvest Hop which was sponsored by the National Honor Society. The Sock Hop was the first of its kind and was very enthusiastically received by the crowd which filled the Teen Age Center that night. The call went out to choose partners for a grand right and left, and squares were speedily formed for an old-fashioned "hoe-down." Highlighting the year's varied schedule of dances were the Christmas and Spring Proms, both of which were sponsored by the Student Council. The elegance of corsages and ball gowns and the romantic mood set by the orchestras combined to make these affairs fitting climaxes for the school's social season.

Not everyone is able to dance — some must work.

Mr. Interlocutor, did you hear this one?

Mammy! How I love ya.

As part of our educational system, various home-rooms presented assembly programs once a month to the student body. We were also given the privilege to have an exchange assembly program with Emmaus, which has fostered friendly relationships between schools. Some of the assemblies are pictured: a minstrel presented by Mr. Robert Snyder's homeroom; the exchange assembly program with Emmaus; a musical comedy, lyrics and music written by Mr. Clauser and Mr. Becker respectively, entitled "The Five Star Special"; and the Bell Telephone program. A fashion show, sponsored by Miller's Department Store included a selected number of students who served as models. For the first time boys also took part in this program. These programs were eagerly anticipated and enjoyed by all.

With the strain of the beloved classic, "O Holy Night", the 1957 presentation of the annual Christmas Vesper program began. The music, art, and speech departments combined efforts to produce the service which drew large audiences Sunday afternoon, December eighth, and Monday evening, December ninth. Mrs. Thelma Santee and Mr. Raymond Becker directed the musical portion of the program; Mr. Melvin Kleppinger had charge of the art work; and Miss Betty Black and Mrs. Flora Obrecht were responsible for the speaking parts and the tableaux.

"And His Name Shall Be Called Counselor" — These words were spoken to Mary by the Angel Gabriel when he announced that she was to bear a child — a king whose reign would be eternal. In a song appropriately entitled "The Annunciation" the chorus musically conveyed Gabriel's message. A striking tableaux depicting the angel's visitation to Mary served to heighten the effect of this portion of the program.

As the time for Christ's birth drew near, Mary and Joseph were forced to journey to Bethlehem the city of their ancestors, to pay taxes demanded by Caesar. Upon their arrival they discovered that the inn was full. "There was no room for the King." In "The Innkeeper's Carol," which the chorus sang, the story of the futile search for room was related. It was made more impressive by an appropriate tableaux.

Thou shalt bring forth a son.

"For Unto Us Is Born — A Savior, Christ The King." These familiar words emphasized in our hearts a most wonderful and joyful event. The miracle of Christmas unfolded as over two hundred voices told the story of the birth of the Christ Child. The "Slumber Song of the Madonna," presented by the ensemble in song and the tableaux in scenery, portrayed the incident in a beautiful setting.

The birth of our Lord and Savior was the culmination of the Nativity Story. His presence put hope and love into our hearts and minds for He was the King of Kings. The presentation by the chorus of "Sweet Little Jesus Boy", symbolic of our Christ Child, gave us true and enlightening knowledge about our God.

"Where Is The King?"

This was the inquiry of the wise men as they started on their journey in search of the Baby Jesus. With their gifts in hand, the tableaux portrayed this now famous pilgrimage to Bethlehem. With combined voices, the chorus helped relate this story.

The chorus then presented a medley of familiar carols while the final events of our Christmas story unfolded in picture form on the tableaux stage. The finale consisted of "The Benediction" and the "Seven-Fold Amen" sung by the ensemble and the Mixed Chorus.

Bring me news of the new born babe.

And they came and found the babe lying in a manger.

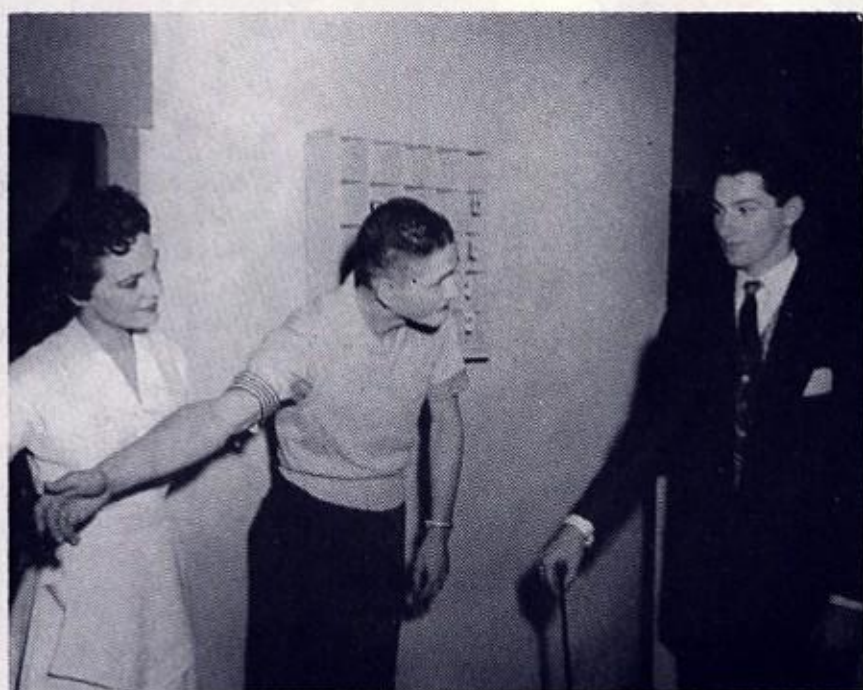

Guess Again

"We'll draw lots. You take one and I'll take the other."

"Great heavens! I thought I was seeing things."

"This way, your Lordship."

"Hands under chin! Chin up! Up on your toes! Now you're doing the Uplift Walk!"

A pleasant mixture of comedy, mystery, and general confusion was brought to us in this year's Senior Class Play. The entire production from try-outs to the final performance was under the direction of Miss Marion Laubach. The play was written by Glenn Hughes and appropriately entitled "Guess Again".

The setting for the play was the lobby of a seaside resort in Southern California. It seemed the manager was facing bankruptcy unless he could find a way to get guests to stay at his hotel. When an article appeared in the paper about a Lord Wiggleton, who traveled incognito, they convinced one of the newly arrived guests to disguise himself as his Lordship. The guests, not knowing of the deception, worshiped his "Lordship". Shortly thereafter the trouble began when a second "Lord Wiggleton" appeared, chased by a Hollywood vamp. The confused guests all took different views on who was the real Lord. When the guests were so confused they weren't sure who was who, two more "Lord Wiggletons" appeared. Then everyone really had to "Guess Again."

The make-up was handled by Miss Fluck, the sets were designed by Mr. Kleppinger and built by Mr. Alek Erdosy.

"Mammy! Mammy!"

Who's Who?

"Fresh fish! Fresh fish!"

"I'm Sol Messer, yessir, glad to meet you, Mr. Grimes."

Thursday evening, February 28, the Thirty-second Annual Junior Speaking Contest was held. Soft music, whispers, and relatives filled the NAJHS auditorium before the contestants began to speak.

Christopher Sieger stepped forward and began the contest with a humorous selection entitled "Speaking of Operations!" He walked off with the first prize. Elaine Schleicher followed with a heart-warming description of a typical teenager's kid sister, "Jane". Next, Robert Galgon related the daily events that occur in "Radio's Raucous Rattle!" Priscilla Sickonic moved the audience with her melancholy selection entitled "The Falcon of Ser Fedevigo" and received second prize. "The Day of the Big Game" was a rib-tickler delivered by Thomas Herman. Again a bit of sadness was reflected in "The Little Match Girl" related by Loretta Scholl. Another second prize winner, Robert Heintzleman gave a powerful oration on American ideals entitled "America's Promise". Linda Moritz thrilled the audience with her first prize-winning delivery of a teenage girl's dream about her "Doll Face."

Several musical selections both vocal and instrumental added to the program. Among them was a solo by Beverly Miller, a duet by Carol Hess and Sandra Cowling, a piano solo by Helen Jane Wolf, and vocal selections by the junior members of the girls' ensemble, and the band.

To Tell the Truth

This year as in the past Northampton High has extended an invitation to the parents of all the students to come to see the progress of both their child and the school.

The main thought behind open house was to help the parents and teachers reach a better understanding. In this way a student in need of help can straighten out his difficulties with the help of his parents and his teachers.

The dates of open house had been selected as the 5th of November and the 10th of January. Attendance was at a new high thanks to the cooperative spirit of many of our students' parents.

The annual Eastern Pennsylvania District Music and Forensic Contest was held on Friday, March 28. Our school again played host at this event. Weeks of long hours of practicing came to a tense climax as students from sixteen schools vied in sixty-five contests. The air was filled with nervous anxiety as each contestant awaited his turn to perform. The judges were professors from the respective departments of neighboring colleges.

Shining in the first place honor spotlight for Northampton High were Mezzo Soprano, Beverly Miller; Flute, Deanna Seiler; girls' ensemble; and a woodwind quintet comprised of Dawn Smith, Dennis Dranchak, Deanna Seiler, James Schall, and Robert Hoffman.

These first place honors enabled these students to compete in State Forensics.

The science fair was the outstanding activity of the science students of Northampton High School. The local science fair was held at the Community Center on February twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth. The purpose of this affair was to select entries for the Lehigh Valley Science Fair. Among the exhibits were those of seventh through twelfth grade students in categories including general science, biology, physics, conservation, and chemistry. Northampton's representatives at the Lehigh Valley Science Fair were selected from the exhibits of ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders. Mr. Papp was the promoter of the local fair. The Twelfth Annual Lehigh Valley Science Fair was held at the Muhlenberg Field House on April sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth. Mr. Papp, president of the Lehigh Valley Science Fair, was very pleased when Northampton students won four first-place awards and one second-place award. The first-place winners were Nancy McMurry, Elizabeth Nicholas, Donald Tarnow, and Joan Schlegel in the fields of physics, engineering, and conservation respectively. Carol Hess won second place in human biology. The projects placed at the fair this year were considered better than those of previous years, reflecting the trend toward increased scientific activity.

Blueprint of Progress

A proud senior receives his diploma.

Singing for the fun of it.

Parents and friends of 169 seniors convened in the high school auditorium to view the commencement exercises of the graduating class of 1957 on Wednesday evening, June 6. The fifty-sixth annual program was written by the seniors themselves and directed by Miss Marion Laubach.

After the national anthem and invocation, which was offered by the Reverend Charles C. Schlitzer, the seniors presented "Blueprint of Progress," the commencement pageant. The setting for the pageant was 1987; the place was the Northampton Bus Terminal. The members of the graduating class of 1957 had returned for the class's 30th reunion. In order to renew old acquaintances and examine the changes that had been made, they decided to tour the town. The visitors were impressed with the many improvements in Northampton. The town now had a public library and a community chorus. Night courses were being offered at the high school for adults who wished to complete their high school education or take additional courses. A borough clinic which offered free treatment in such branches of medicine as physiotherapy, dental hygiene, and pediatrics had been established. During the tour the bus passed a group of cement workers and their families who were enjoying themselves at a picnic. The cement plants, in cooperation with the cement dust commission, had practically eliminated the dirt and pollution which was once a cause for concern among the borough residents. The visitors dropped in at a P.T.A. meeting in which parents and teachers were discussing mutual problems and at a Civil Defense meeting in which citizens were learning about the safety measures which should be taken if there should be an atomic attack upon the area's industries. Concluding the tour was a visit to the Northampton Recreation Center, which provided activities and interests for all ages of the community. The visitors unanimously agreed that the past thirty years had brought many improvements to the borough.

At the close of the pageant 169 proud seniors solemnly assembled in their caps and gowns for the class processional. Following the class song, diplomas were presented, and the new alumni of Northampton High School were ready to fulfill their roles as members of the community.

Sports Headlines

Sports would lose much of their attraction to the average fan without the huge publicity program that accompanies them. Long before the event takes place many other plans must be completed on PAPER. The schedules are made up at least a year in advance. The posters, score sheets, and booster tags are made in order to more thoroughly publicize the event and thus draw a larger following. The public relations completed, the rest was up to the coaches and the players.

The coaches were never finished working; at the end of one season they already began putting their strategy for next year's campaign on PAPER. The athletic staff of NAJHS again did a laudable job in the '57-'58 sports year; a glance at the final league standings of our teams verified this.

Athletics served as a much-needed outlet for the bustling energy of the students who spent the better part of the day sitting in the class room. Northampton had five major or varsity sports — football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, and track. Our school is a member of the Lehigh Valley League.

Girls also served a purpose in our athletic program even though they were somewhat unheralded. They served as cheerleaders and majorettes; much of the color and excitement of a contest would be missing without the presence of the cheerleaders.

Finally, even after the event, PAPER had its uses. Newspaper clippings served to enlighten those who weren't fortunate enough to be at the event.

PHILLIPSBURG

The Konkrete Kids laid their 24 game winning streak on the line when the underdog Kids met an experienced P-Burg 11 on September 27.

While scoring twelve points during the first half, the "Stateliners" held the Kids to one first down.

After half time the Black and Orange came roaring back and took possession of the ball on their own 33 yard line. Marching down the field in 11 plays, Charlie Kuntzleman scored carrying the ball from the five. Joseph Miksits then added the extra point.

The Kids started another TD drive, but were stymied on the Stateliner's 7. One more touchdown, via a pass for P-Burg ended a thrilling opener with P-Burg on top 18-7.

EMMAUS

The Kids got back into their winning ways when they "stung" the Green Hornets 27-7. A quick score in the opening minutes jarred the Kids to life. Four drives of 65, 68, 63, and 55 yards gave the Black and Orange their first Lehigh Valley League Victory. Northampton's defense proved itself when it held Emmaus outside the Northampton 30 yard line for the entire last half.

The four touchdowns were evenly divided between Kuntzleman and Kuba. Joe Miksits booted three extra points.

WHITEHALL

The Kids romped to their fourth straight league victory as Charlie Kuntzleman and Gary Kellner combined to score five touchdowns for a 33-12 triumph over Whitehall. Overcoming an early 6-0 deficit, Northampton struck pay dirt five times before the Zephyrs scored again in the final period. Kuntzleman scored three touchdowns on plunges, while Kellner caught two of Bill Beidleman's aerials for his two touchdowns. The Kids gained 303 yards rushing and 146 yards through the air as compared to Whitehall's 199 and 26 yards.

PALMERTON

After a two week lay off due to the flu the Kids defeated Palmerton 32-7. This game was marked by great defensive work on the part of Northampton's line, holding Palmerton to five first downs. Farkas and Hershman were mainstays on defense.

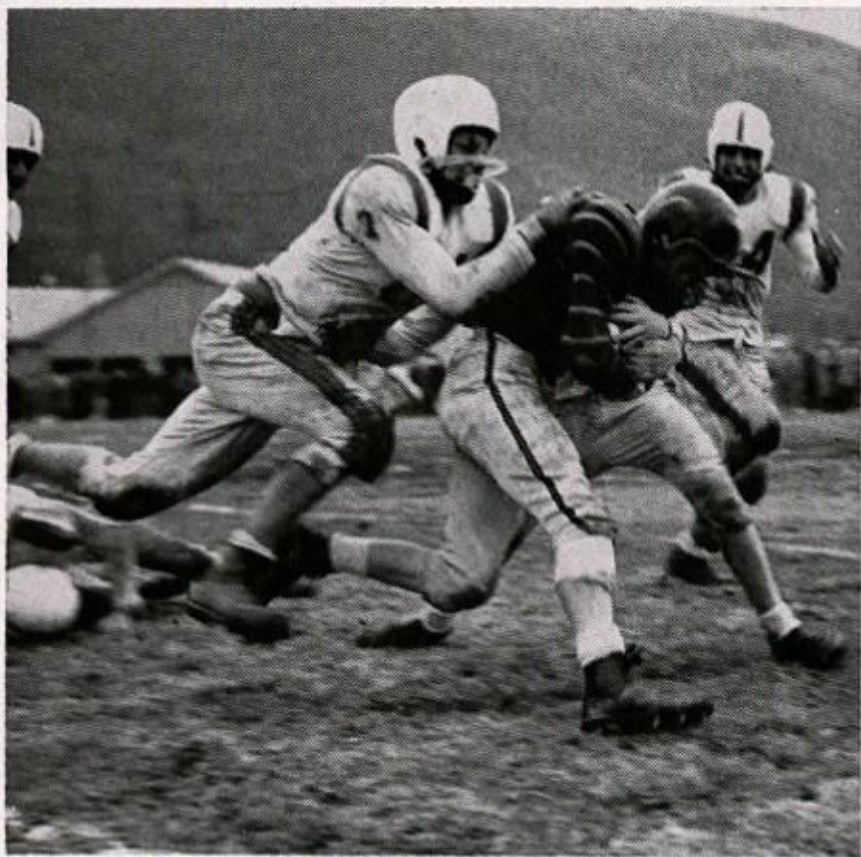

Northampton's scoring was all done in the first and fourth quarters. Three TD's were scored by Kuntzleman and one by Miksits on running plays. The first aerial TD of the season came on a pass from quarterback Oplinger to Kellner. Palmerton's lone score came when Heydt picked up a fumble and raced 25 yards for a touchdown.

STROUDSBURG

Eclipsing their 38-0 whitewash of Lehighton the Kids humbled Stroudsburg 47-0 for the fifth straight win this season and their twenty-fourth straight league win. Bill Beidleman scored two TD's while five other players crossed the goal line. The game was marked by Northampton's display of power as even the third string was able to penetrate the Poconos defense. Kuntzleman scored the first of the Black and Orange's seven touchdowns on a two-yard plunge before the game was two minutes old. Six minutes later Joe Miksits swept right end for 16 yards and the Kids' second score. Before the final whistle blew, Dave Kuba, Don Reenock, and Gerry Rudelitsch had crossed the Pocono goal line. Derkits shone that day as he booted five extra points.

LEHIGHTON

The Black and Orange continued their powerhouse play against Lehighton as they whitewashed the Indians 38-0. On the first play from scrimmage Charlie Kuntzleman scored on a 70 yard jaunt through the middle to start the Kids on their touchdown parade. Northampton's adamant line led by co-captain Gerry Farkas held the Indians to a minimum of 13 yards from scrimmage. Following Kuntzleman's TD dash, Joe Miksits skirted left end for 32 yards and for the Kids second score. Northampton tallied another score in the second quarter on a two-yard plunge by Dave Kuba. After Kuntzleman bucked over from the two for the Kids fourth score, Bill Beidleman hit Steve Hershman with a 31 yard pass scoring play. Willard Oplinger found Mike Gontar with a 20 yard pass to end the Kids scoring. Bernie Semmel's accurate arm kept Lehighton in the game as he completed 13 of 24 attempts for 110 yards.

Another Successful Season

CATASAUQUA

Thanksgiving Day concluded another successful season as the Kids defeated the unbeaten and untied Catty Rough Riders 18-7, before a standing room crowd of over 10,000.

Starting on their own 28 yard line Northampton drove 72 yards in 13 plays with Dave Kuba backing over from the 4 yard line for the first Northampton touchdown.

The hard-charging line, led by co-captains Gerald Farkas and Gary Kellner, held the Catty offense to 73 yards.

In the second quarter Kuntzleman exploded up the middle for a 54 yard TD run.

The rest of the scoring was done in the fourth quarter with Charlie Kuntzleman climaxing a long drive by plunging over for a score from the one yard line. In the waning moments of the game Catasaqua's Jim Hodes recovered a fumble in the end zone for their only score. Final score 18-7.

SLATINGTON

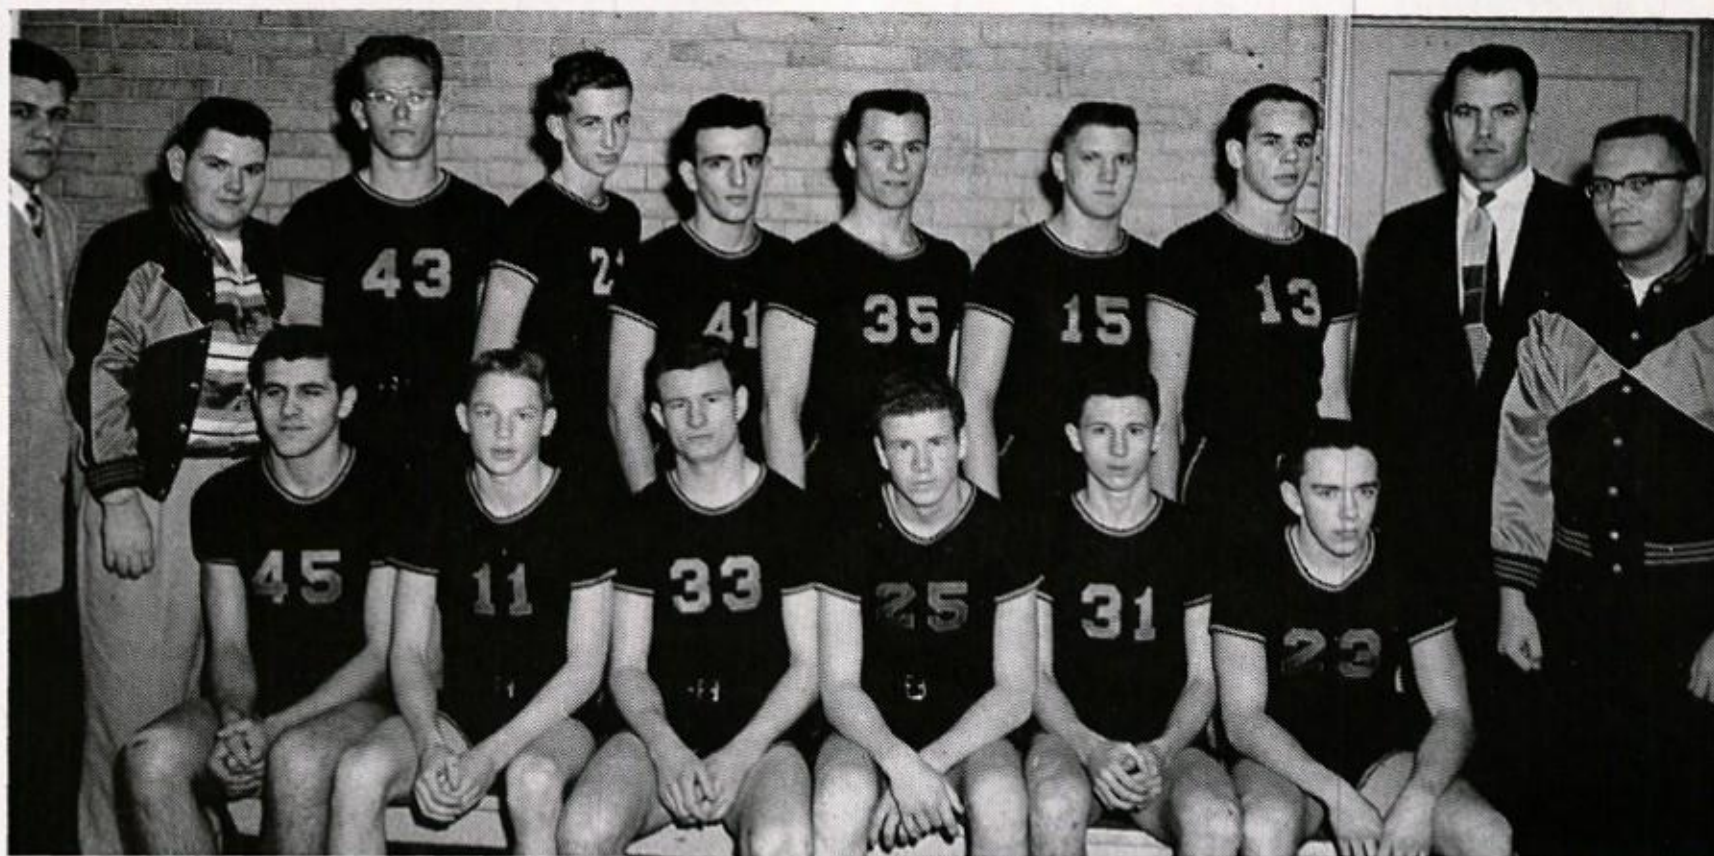

The Konkrete Kids' stubborn defense held Slatington to one first down as they rolled up 55 points. This win gave the Black and Orange their sixth straight win. Northampton had a 28-0 advantage at the end of the first quarter. Joe Miksits and Charlie Kuntzleman scored on runs of 20 and 31 yards respectively for the first two TD's. Steve Hershman then hauled in a 17-yard pass from Bill Beidleman and scampered 36 yards to pay dirt. Willard Oplinger picked up a Slatington fumble and barreled 37 yards for the Kids' fourth score. Other scoring came by way of Kuntzleman's 33 yard off tackle run, and Miksits' 41 yard dash. Gerry Rudelitsch and Bob Bowen scored on plunges to round out the Kids' scoring in a final test for the clash with Catasaqua.

Our Poets — The Longfellows

Standing: B. Stranzl, asst. coach, R. Nicholas, G. Rudelitsch, G. Gasper, B. Beidleman, G. Kellner, D. Kuba, S. Herschman, P. Schneider, coach, D. Dranchak. Sitting: T. Reenock, W. Oplinger, J. Miksits, F. Miksits, G. Kohler, P. Ridgely.

With the loss of last year's five seniors, four of them starters, Coach Pete Schneider faced a tough assignment picking five new starters from the large group of inexperienced players. Joe Miksits was the only returning starter.

Inexperienced and not yet seasoned the Kids fought hard, but lost to a well-drilled Coplay five.

After straightening out a schedule mix up in which Northampton found itself with two opponents for the same night, the Kids lost their second outing to a strong P-Burg team by a score of 52-45. High point men for Northampton were Herschman and Kellner with 12 and 10 points respectively.

At Bethlehem the Kids ran into a tough Bethlehem Catholic team. Despite the 26 point contribution of freshman, Willard Oplinger, the Kids fell 53-46.

Opening league competition, Northampton upset Stroudsburg, 37-36, on the Mountaineers' court. A fast break, full-court press, and a team effort all combined to enable the Kids to gain victory over Stroudsburg, a pre-season choice for the title.

On their home court the Kids valiantly but futilely tried to stop Emmaus' first half march toward the league championship. Out-rebounded and out-shot the Kids fell victim to Emmaus, 61-48. Captain Joe Miksits, brother Frank, and Steve Herschman racked up 15, 11, and 11 points respectively.

On the Catasauqua floor the Kids met disaster in the fourth quarter at the hands of a sharp Whitehall team. Bill Beidleman scored 14 points in vain as the Kids blew a five point lead and lost 41-40.

Angered by their close loss to the Zephyrs, the Kids never allowed the visiting Slaters to get started as they racked up 53 points to Slatington's 40. Beidleman contributed 15 points and Joe Miksits 10.

Possession ball and a tight defense held the Kids in contention at Palmerton as they had it tied up 16-16 at the half, but the second half proved to be the Kids' downfall as the "Bombers" finally emerged victorious 49-41 from a game wrought with fouls. Gary Kellner was high for the Kids with 12 points.

Using blitzkrieg tactics, the Catty Rough Riders rode roughshod over the visiting Kids defense with their lightning, fast-break and deadly shooting. Herschman's 19 points were to no avail as the Kids went down 81-53.

Herschman and J. Miksits scored 19 and 18 points, but the visiting Lehighton Indians beat the Kids at the foul line to wrap up a 65-54 victory.

Shoot Them Up and Get Them In

The Kids closed out the first half league competition with a 2-5 record.

Starting second half league competition the Kids proved they were rapidly becoming veterans as they cut the visiting Mountaineers to size, 61-44. Four players hit double figures for Northampton. Frank Miksits had 14, Joe, 12, Kellner, 17, and Herschman, 11.

Shooting only the good shots, Northampton surprised Emmaus and the Lehigh Valley as it handed Emmaus its first defeat in league competition, 54-51. Frank Miksits connected for 17 and Joe for 16.

Our joy was short lived, however. Whitehall came to Northampton and whipped us, 60-45, pulling out the game in the last quarter. Frank Miksits hit 15 points for naught.

Hitting for 26 points in the first quarter, the Kids held off Slatington in the last half and won a 55-50 victory over the Slaters at Smith Hall. Herschman was high with 19; Beidleman backed him up with 14 points.

Having a 3-1 record and being very much in contention for the second half title, Northampton blew a 17-point lead over Catty, the eventual second half league champs, to lose 51-50 in the last few seconds of the game. Playing a tight man-to-man defense the Kids held the normally high scoring Riders to a minimum of points in the first three quarters, but Catty came to life in the last quarter and beat us. Herschman with 14 and Kellner with 12 points led the Kids in scoring.

The Catty loss seemed to take the starch out of the Kids as they fell victims to Lehigh 67-56. Despite the poor shooting of the Kids, three players finished in double figures. Herschman and Kellner had 11 and Frank Miksits 13 points.

In a make-up game with Palmerton the Kids found themselves bombed by the Bombers. The Kids lost the game at the foul line as Palmerton scored 22 more fouls than the Kids. Gary Kellner and Joe Miksits in their last game for NAJHS contributed 16 and 9 points, but the Kids lost 60-46. Northampton finished the second half competition with a 3-4 record and an overall season record of 5-17.

Lost from the squad via graduation will be Gary Kellner, Joseph Miksits, Thomas Reenock, and Philip Ridgely; however with Frank Miksits, Steve Herschman, Willard Oplinger, Gary Kohler, Bill Beidleman, Dave Kuba, and George Gasper returning, Coach Pete Schneider can look forward to the '58-'59 campaign in which he will have a veteran team capable of making lots of trouble.

Coach Harry Wall's "bone benders" anticipated a good year with six veterans to form the nucleus for the 1957-1958 season.

The Kids started the season with an exhibition match against the defending Prep School Conference Champions — Hill School. The grunt-and-groaners went down to defeat 22-16. Despite the loss, the match showed that the Northampton lineup was potentially strong. John Spanitz was the stand-out in this meet as he pinned Moore of Hill School in 1:22.

Next the Kids traveled to Bethlehem and dumped the highly rated Hurricanes by a score of 31-11. Larry Suranofsky, Steve Toth, Mike Gontar, and John Spanitz all scored pins to lead the Kids to a stunning victory.

Gontar orbits another satellite.

The Northampton bone benders scored their second league win of the season by defeating Phillipsburg 30-10.

During the Christmas vacation the Black and Orange traveled to Haverford for an exhibition match with Haverford. Mike Chuss tied the Christmas Tournament champion 2-2 as the Kids mauled Haverford 44-5.

The Christmas vacation did not stop the NAJHS lineup as they slammed Wilson Boro 38-6. Hilt, Heffelfinger, Billy, Mike Chuss, and Kuntzleman won by falls.

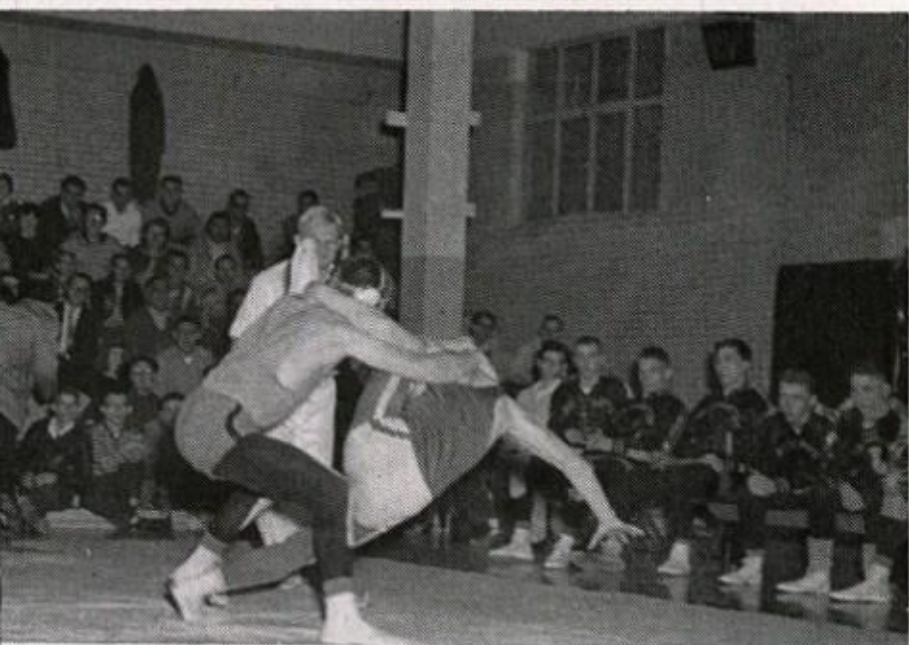

Easton met Northampton on our home mat with both teams having identical records, 3-0. After a hard-fought, evenly-matched bout the Kids finally tied Easton 18-18. Winners for the Kids were Recker, Billy, Spanitz, Nickischer, Bartholomew, and Kuntzleman.

The next week the Kids rebounded and cracked a scoring record by defeating Southern Lehigh 61-0. All of Northampton's wins were by pins except one forfeit.

Coach Harry Wall's team then went to Allentown to meet the undefeated Canaries to decide the league championship. The Canaries scored in early bouts, but the Kids came back, paled by Nickischer and Billy. Billy decisioned undefeated James Milham 6-3. Tom Chuss wrestled an excellent defensive bout against the State Champion, Al Rushatz. Kuntzleman decisioned Winterhalt to knot the score at 17-17. So the league championship still remained in doubt.

Emmaus was the next victim of Northampton by losing 48-0. Joe Recker pinned Dennis Salters of Emmaus in 1:30 and Gordon Bartholomew extended his winning streak to eight. (Seven wins were made in league competition.)

Still fresh from their victory over Emmaus, the Kids whipped Whitehall 56-0. Billy continued his winning ways by pinning Carl Meltza of Whitehall.

The Kids defeated Nazareth, their last opponent, in league competition by a 45-0 verdict. Gordon Bartholomew remained undefeated in league competition with a 9-0 record. Milan Billy also was undefeated in league competition with a 9-0 record.

The Grand Finale of the wrestling season was the District 11 Wrestling Match. The Kids were second with 68 points. Bethlehem was first with 70 points. Northampton placed five men in the finals and one in the 88 pound exhibition bout. In the Finals Larry Suranofsky captured the 88 pound District 11 title. Kenneth Nickischer was decided by Hollinga, and Joe Recker was also defeated by Bill Rinker. Milan Billy was defeated in an overtime period by State Champion Bert Mosser of Bethlehem. Gordon Bartholomew defeated Kramer of Nazareth to capture the 154 pound title. Charles Kuntzleman lost to Bill Werst of Bethlehem by a referee's decision after an overtime period. Gordon Bartholomew was undefeated in Regionals 7-6.

Larry Suranofsky won by forfeit. At the State meet Suranofsky lost by a 7-4 count.

The Kids completed the most successful season in the school's history with a 7-0-2 record. Northampton was the first team to be undefeated in league competition and lose the league championship. Due to 2 ties they were placed second in the league next to Allentown, who had 1 tie meet. That tie was a result of the Northampton-Allentown Meet which ended in a 17-17 tie.

R. Minnich soars to success on the pole vault.

Emmaus High School was the first victim of Northampton's quest for their fourth straight Lehigh Valley League Track Title as the Konkrete Kids trimmed the Green Hornets 65 $\frac{1}{3}$ -292 $\frac{2}{3}$. Charlie Kuntzleman and Ron Minnich paced the kids to their initial win with record performances. Kuntzleman won the 440 in 53.2 to better his own record by four-tenth of a second. Minnich won the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 10 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches, eclipsing his old mark of 5 feet 8 inches.

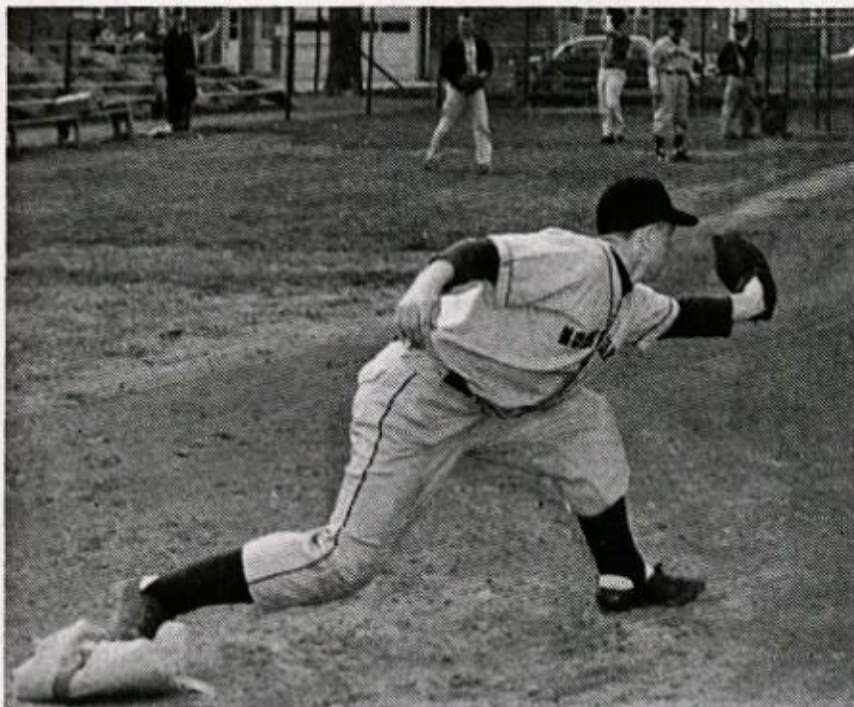

The Kids continued to overpower their opponents with a decisive 56 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ win over Parkland. Two days later the Kids edged out a strong Lehigh-ton team 49 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 45 $\frac{1}{2}$ as a clutch mile relay anchored by Jack Spanitz insured the victory.

With this auspicious start, Coach Reimer's team hoped to win the Lehigh Valley Championship.

J. Marchak stretches to make a scoop.

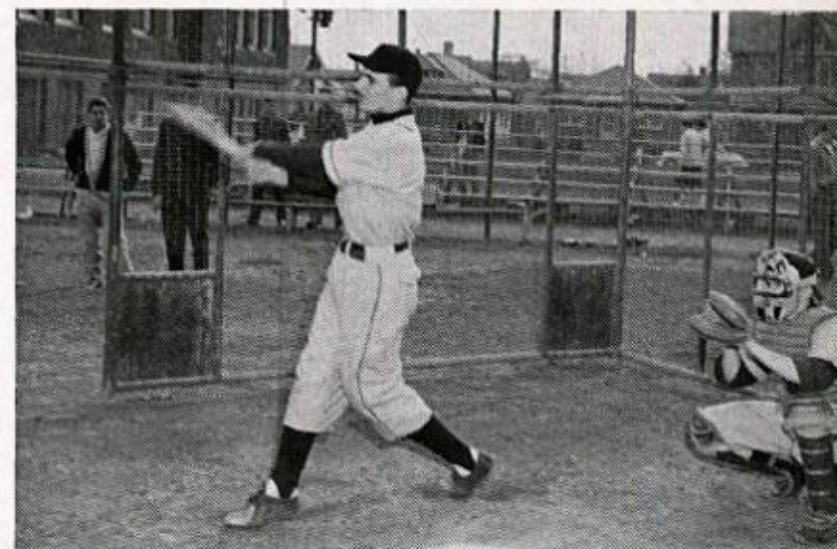

Scarcely was the third heavy snowfall gone from the ground when the sound "play ball" inaugurated another successful season, as veteran coach "Mike" Lisetski's sluggers clubbed Parkland 8-4. The real test soon followed with a tight victory 2-1 over a strong Allentown "9". Superior pitching by Mike Chuss and clutch-hitting by Don Vogel proved the difference.

The "Kids" were victorious in five straight games before losing to Whitehall in a 4-6 squeeze. They rebounded, however, to take Slatington by a 15-0 count. The backbone of the team were the pitchers, Chuss, Beidleman, and Shimoski. Shimoski also belted a grand slam home-run in the third game of the season against Whitehall. Also contributing were Vogel and Marchak. Strong support was given by infielders Dicky Tanczos and Willard Oplinger and outfielders Robert Schwechten and Joseph Tanczos.

Finis

And so another year at NAJHS draws to a close. It has been the final year for us seniors, and we hope you have enjoyed our guided tour as we led you page by page through our classes, clubs, extra curricular activities, and sports events, and as we attempted to portray high school life through the common every day medium of PAPER. We, the graduating class of 1958, for whom this year has been full of study, activity, and pleasure, wish the underclassmen a senior year as rewarding as ours has been.
